DEEP GAS, OIL TEST PROPOSED

Company Will Drill Well Near Lima—May Go 5,500 Feet, Depending on Findings—Good Gamble, Backers Say—Roundhead Field Discussed

Deep tests for oil and gas in Allen-co in the near future are assured, according to a statement Thursday of S. B. Mercer oil operator, representing the Auglaize Oil & Gas Co., a Wapakoneta concern.

A well will be drilled soon, Mercer said, probably within two and a half miles of Lima. The company is prepared to go to a depth of 5,500 feet or more if necessary and formation warrant.

Mercer has been making an extensive survey thru this part of the state for the Wapak company. The exact spot for the drilling has not been definitely decided, he said, but indications are that it will be very close to this city.

ADMITTED GAMBLE

"It is a big gamble," Mercer said. "We are going into the matter realizing that: A deep test has never been made in this part of the country and it will be of great value as a matter of record."

A rotary rig will be used in making the test. Mercer says this type of machinery has never been used in the local oil fields, but has been found very successful in the Texas fields where he has operated for a number of years.

Wells were drilled to a depth of 1200 to 1,400 feet in this locality in the boom days. Mercer believes that drilling to a depth of 4,000 to 5,500 feet is an even bet. His concern will go far below the Trenton sand, the depth to depend on formation found.

If the first test is successful, the company will continue operations. If not, those who are desirous of ascertaining what is deep down around here will be satisfied, Mercer says.

"Those who become connected with the enterprise will not do so by being told we are going to make them rich," Mercer said. "We expect to handle the proposition as highly speculative and a gamble. We expect to start drilling by April 1."

TALKS OF ROUNDHEAD

The company is capitalized at $125,000. The incorporators are J. M. Hulbert, C. W. Gunther, Gilbert A. Smith and Earl C. Becholdt, Wapakoneta; S. B. Mercer, Houston, Tex., and C. E. Betts, Sidney.

Mercer spoke of the Roundhead oil and gas field. He was asked for his opinion concerning the supply of gas there for a city the size of Lima. He said:

"I have not made a thoro survey of that field, but what I have seen does not impress me greatly."

He was not hesitant in saying that he did not believe the gas supply there would be great enough to supply Lima.

JUDGE DECLARES JUSTICE LITTLE

Poor's Chance in Court Small, He Tells Bar Meet

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Equality before the law is impossible so long as the rich and powerful are represented in court by highly educated lawyers, while a large part of the poor and ignorant are represented by untrained and incompetent men, Judge Clarence N. Goodwin, of Chicago, declared in his opening address today as chairman of the conference of bar associations here.

Until such a condition is corrected, he said, there will be little justice in the courts.

"During my years as a trial judge," the speaker said, "I was frequently distressed by the fact that one side or the other in the case before me was so incompetently represented by counsel, or represented by such ignorant counsel that, owing to the learning and skill of the attorneys on the other side, it seemed impossible to get the case properly before the court or keep error out of the record."

"Miscarriages of justice," he continued, "due to ignorance and incompetence of counsel, are largely beyond the power of the judges to control, or of rules of practice to remedy. It is to be remembered, however, that the men representing these unfortunate litigants were licensed by the state to practice law. It seems little less than a crime for the state to certify to the competency, to the learning and to the ability of a man who represents his fellow citizens in court who is not learned nor able nor competent to represent or advise anybody in any legal matter."

OHIO PHYSICIAN, 89, BEGINS PRISON TERM

COLUMBUS — Dr. W. H. Black, aged 89, of Cleveland, convicted of illegal practice, was received at the Ohio penitentiary today to begin an indeterminate term. He is older by six years than any other prisoner at the big prison.

Cuyahoga-co officers who brought the aged doctor to the penitentiary said that Dr. Black sang and joked with them while coming down on a train and that he declared to them that he would live to be 120 years old.

PLAN TO TAX THE POOR NIPPED

Mellon's Scheme to Levy on Coffee, Tea Revealed

OPPOSED BY COMMITTEE

House Body Will Recommend General Sales Tax

WASHINGTON —(United Press) —Coffee, tea and sugar with other foods, will be exempt from the sales tax, wherewith it is planned to raise cash for the soldier bonus.

The house ways and means Republican sub-committee has already decided against a tax on coffee, tea and sugar—as recommended secretly by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon — it leaked out today.

The majority of the committee is opposed to any foods being taxed since that would hit the poor man's pocket and probably kill the tax it its inception.

Instead of taxing specific commodities, as Mellon suggested, the committee favors imposing a "general" sales tax with "specific exemptions."

COMMITTEE PLANS

The sub-committee was in recess until tomorrow, but its general plans are to report out a sales tax scheme, based on the Canadian plan, thus putting it squarely up to congress whether to pass a tax or to postpone bonus legislation until something can be realized from sale of British debt bonds. There is a growing disposition to wait and see if a substantial amount can be obtained from this source.

HARDING'S IDEAS

President Harding is favorable to the foreign bond idea, his friends said, but is opposed to passing any bonus bill which provided no definite means of payment and left the way open on theory that the bonds would be sufficient. This is not yet entirely certain, tho the president is quoted as having reasons to believe the British issue would be forthcoming soon and this be used to finance the bonus.

The treasury experts have told the sub-committee that probably $580,000,000 annually could be raised by a sales tax of not more than three per cent only on manufacturers or wholesalers and not on retailers or middlemen. On this basis, the committee is framing a draft but no concrete plan has yet been agreed upon.

TWO DIE TONIGHT

Murderers to be Electrocuted at Columbus

COLUMBUS—(Associated Press)—Penitentiary officials today were making preparations for a double electrocution shortly after midnight tonight, while the fate of one man due to die hung in the balance.

Arthur Harding, charged with the killing of William Kress, Toledo policeman, and Roy Chamblin, Portsmouth, who killed John W. Neuman and Louise Doyle, church workers, will step into the electric chair when the clock passes midnight tonight, unless courts or the governor intervene.

Harding's appeal for a review of his case by the supreme court was being considered by that body, which is to decide some time today.

There is no application in the high tribunal court for Chamblin, and any clemency for him will have to come from the governor.

If the double electrocution takes place tonight, the death house population at the penitentiary will be decreased to 12.

MANY QUIZZED IN ROMA WRECK

Air Chief Determined to Uncover Cause of Disaster

WASHINGTON—(United Press) —Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, is determined to uncover the real cause for the destruction of the army dirigible Roma, no matter what difficulties confront his board of inquiry, he told the United Press today.

Spurred on by reports emanating from certain army air service officers that the cause never would be made, due to havoc wrought by the fall and fire and the death of 34 officers and men, he said, "we are not merely trying; we will find out."

Meanwhile, indications are that the congressional investigation of the disaster will be made when appropriations for the army air service are considered by the house appropriations committee.

The board of inquiry appointed by Patrick, now is examining scores of witnesses at Langley Field from where the ship sailed on her disastrous flight and where her crew was recruited. Patrick expects a report within a few days.

In losing the Roma the United States is relegated to the rear rank among the big nations in the lighter-than-air machine sphere, Patrick said. Neither the army nor navy possessed a big dirigible, but the navy is building another one now.

DIRIGIBLE DISASTER POSTPONES RECEPTION

WASHINGTON — Due to the Roma disaster and the mourning occasioned by the loss of lives of army personnel, President and Mrs. Harding today announced postponement until April 19 of the army and navy reception, one of the state affairs of the official social season, which was to have been held tonight at the White House.

Postponement of the reception, to which 4,000 invitations had been issued to officers of the army and navy, followed a conference between President Harding and Secretary Weeks.

VEIL IS LIFTED IN 'DEATH' PUZZLE

New York Woman, Believed Murdered, Found in Chicago

MISSING SINCE LAST SUMMER

Fled to Save Daughter From Divorce Suit

CHICAGO—(United Press)—The "death mystery" of Mrs E. S. Cheatham, wealthy New York widow, was solved today—she was found hiding in Chicago.

Mrs. Cheatham disappeared last summer. Her clothes, found in a Coney Island locker, were the only trace.

Love for her daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Mayor, wife of Roy Albert Mayor, broker, was given as cause for the disappearance.

"Roy started suit for divorce, in which he alleged 'too much mother-in-law,'" said Mrs. Cheatham today. "I vanished to make things easier for my daughter."

Mrs. Cheatham was living under the name of Mrs. Hill at a rooming house.

WILL RETURN HOME

"My daughter did not know but what I had been murdered," she said. "I did not tell her because I did not wish to involve her in conspiracy charges."

Mrs. Cheatham said she was going to return to New York now that she was discovered.

"And," she said, "tell Commissioner Wright to stop his search for my 'murderers.' Wipe his record clear of an unsolved murder."

The presence of Mrs. Cheatham in Chicago leaked out when she had her picture taken at one of the most exclusive shops in Chicago

"That was my mistake," she said, "otherwise I would never have been found."

STRIKE VOTE OF MINERS CALLED

CHICAGO—(Associated Press)—The formal call for a referendum vote by the United Mine Workers of America to determine whether there would be a national coal strike on April 1, was sent out today, it was announced by John L. Lewis, president of the union here today.

The ballots are to be cast at each union local before March 10 and the returns filed at the mine workers' union headquarters in Indianapolis before March 15.

Ballots were being mailed out along with the call from the Indianapolis headquarters, Mr. Green said.

ROTARIANS WILL ATTEND MEET

Discussion of Crippled Children to be Held Friday

Leading business and professional men from Ohio cities will convene in the Hotel Deshler, Columbus, Friday to discuss action on the care, cure and education of crippled children in the state.

Lima Rotary Club, which has taken an active stand in the crippled children movement, is to be represented. The meeting will be the second annual session of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children.

Heads of various organizations interested in welfare of children will address the meeting.

Ohio has more than 12,000 cripples under the age of 14 years, according to Edgar F. Allen, Elyria, president of the society, in making the call for the meeting.

Fifty per cent can be cured, and another 25 per cent made self-supporting, he says.

Rotary clubs in the state are seeking out children and in co-operation with the Ohio society are planning to open hospitals, camp schools and homes in all of the larger cities.

Lima is to be represented at the meeting by George E. Bair, Dr. J. R. Tillotson, George L. Parmenter, Peter N. Hulsken and Ralph Austin.

HAS BEAUTY, BUT IS MORE INTERESTED IN BRAINS

MRS. IRENE PHOTIADES

ATHENS — The most beautiful and cleverest woman in Athens' That is to title given to Mrs. Irene Photiades by leaders in the various succeeding regimes in Greek politics.

Venizelists found her a most astute, politically minded person: Royalists look upon her with equal admiration.

And she goes her very diplomatic way between seas of political intrigue.

IS PROGRESSIVE

Mrs. Photiades is one of the most progressive women in Greece.

"Greece, the oldest democracy, has a lot to learn about real democracy when it comes to women having the vote," she said. "Today the tendency is for the aristocrat to stand aloof from the working woman. The aristocrats represent the quality; the working woman the quantity. We must have a better understanding.

"There is a sort of snobbishness for philanthropy in Athens, but the more advanced women are learning that convenient philanthropy alone is not advancing the cause of modern Greece.

"Bolshevism has shown us the results of the classes not helping the masses."

Like all cultured Athenians, Mrs Photiades speaks English perfectly as well as French. When her beauty was referred to, she dismissed the subject in embarrassment.

INTEREST IN POLITICS

"I am much more interested in brains than beauty," she said, "tho I wouldn't be a true Greek if I disparaged the latter. My ideal is to see the aristocratic women of Greece take deep interest in our politics. Greece needs intelligence of both sexes in its development."

Mrs. Photiades by right of title, if titles were admitted in Greece today, would bear that of princess — she was Princess Irene Soutza, descendant of the family famed in the seventeenth century when the Phanariotes fought so valiantly for Greece.

THREE BROKERAGE HOUSE FAILURES RECORDED

NEW YORK — Three failures recorded today were added to the lengthening list of bankrupt brokerage houses. One firm was expelled from the curb market.

Suspension of the S. S. Ruskay and Company, brokers, was announced at the consolidated Stock Exchange and at the same time an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the firm in the United States district court.

Due to the failure of Rasmussen and company to meet its engagements the New York curb market announced suspension of the company from regular membership.

The third brokerage firm declared bankrupt is that of Kardos and Burke, of which John Burke, treasurer of the United States and three times governor of North Dakota, was a member.

Voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in United States district court against James W. Ball and Company, brokers. The petition alleges liabilities to be $150,000 and assets $10,000.

TORNADO SWEEPS PARTS OF OHIO

Brick School House Demolished Near Chillicothe

BLIZZARD GRIPS NORTHWEST

Snow is Piled 20 Feet in Two States

OHIO DIRECTLY IN PATH OF BLIZZARD

COLUMBUS — (Associated Press)—Ohio is in the direct path of the blizzard and cold wave which is working its way eastward, and practically all portions of the Buckeye state will experience a drop in temperature of from thirty to fifty degrees within the next 24 to 36 hours, according to the United States weather bureau here.

CHILLICOTHE — (Associated Press) — A small tornado, 56 yards wide, swept down on the village of Yellow Bud, north of here, this morning and demolished a brick school house. Two residences were unroofed and blown over and a family in a camp car upset with their car. Several trees were uprooted.

The storm came from the southwest. Ten children who sought refuge in the vestibule of the school house that was demolished, escaped with minor injuries received from flying bricks.

ROOFS TORN OFF

DAYTON — (Associated Press)— A storm which struck West Alexandria, 10 miles west of Dayton this morning, tore the roof from the car barns of the Dayton and Western Traction Company and put the line's power plant out of commission temporarily. Several trees were blown down. Dayton felt no effects of the storm.

SNOW PILED HIGH

CHICAGO — (Associated Press)— —The Northwest continued ice and snowbound today and the blizzard which swept in from the Rocky Mountains Tuesday night with thunder and lightning, spread its influence eastward and southwestward.

Temperatures were falling rapidly early today Western Minnesota and the Dakotas reported from five to twelve degrees below zero, and a cold wave began to affect the southwest as far as central Texas. At Chicago, where a warm record for a Washington's birthday was set yesterday, the thermometer began to tumble rapidly.

TRAINS HALTED

In the Northwest train schedules continued to be seriously interrupted and in some instances abandoned, while wire service was handicapped. Hundreds of telegraph line poles went down under weight of freezing rain or sleet and winds of from 30 to 50 miles an hour which piled snow in some places in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin to heights of 20 feet.

In the Southwest a severe glaze storm prevailed over a wide area.

In Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas warm, soaking rains fell yesterday turning to a sheet of ice when the temperature suddenly dropped. The rain broke a long drought.

THREE INCHES OF ICE

In some parts of southern Minnesota one to three inches of ice, formed as in the Southwest, covered the ground. Seven high school students of Welcome, Minn., skated seven miles to Fairmount on the public highway which was covered with smooth ice.

At Duluth, Minn., nearly 30 inches of snow had fallen early today. Jamestown, N. D., reported a temperature of 12 below zero.

Reports from the Southwest were that yesterday's weather was expected to prove highly beneficial to crops. Despite unreasonably warm temperatures during the past few weeks, it was said, there had been very little budding.

MORMONS CHASED BY MOBS

Missionaries Rescued in England by the Police

SEEK CONVERTS

LONDON—(Associated Press)— Some of the newspapers recently have been conducting a campaign against Mormon activities thruout the country, alleging that the missionaries were trying to obtain women converts who would proceed to Utah and embrace polygamy. This statement is denied by the Mormon elders, but their meetings have been broken up in some of the thickly populated suburban districts.

The authorities have been urged from various sources to take action with a view to expelling the members of the sect. Home Secretary Shortt yesterday interviewed two of the Mormon leaders, but the result of their conversation was not divulged.

BUILDING TIEUP AT CLEVELAND THREATENS

CLEVELAND—A final effort to avoid a building tie-up will be made here tomorrow at a general conference of employers and union representatives in the building trades.

Leaders of both sides today said there was little hope of reaching an agreement.

W. H. Hennessy, secretary of the Building Trades Employers' association said:

"A tie-up starting next Wednesday is inevitable. It is possible that some of the trades will not be involved," said Hennessy. "But indications are that no agreement will be reached."

"The unions are firm in their stand not to accept pay cuts or changes in working rules," said Charles Smith, secretary of the Building Trades Council. "If there is a tie-up, it will not be a strike on our part, but a lockout put into effect by the employers."

MURDER PLANNED IN DOPE DEN

Detroit Prisoner Tells of W. D. Taylor's Slaying

PROMPTED THRU REVENGE

Movie Director Had Declared War on Drug Peddlers

LOS ANGELES — (United Press) — The mystery of William D. Taylor's death may be cleared up before another day.

Working on information provided by Henry N. Fields, under arrest in Detroit, deputy sheriffs today were following four well-defined clues to the murder.

The clues are:

1—The murder gun, said by Fields to be buried at a designated spot.

2—A $1,000 note which the murderer changed at a Los Angeles bank, according to Fields.

3—An automobile in which Fields asserted he drove the slayer to and from Taylor's home.

4—A dope den where plans for the "movie murder" were hatched, according to Fields.

So far, investigators have not uncovered any material evidence to support Fields' amazing story of the murder, but it has been received with enough faith to warrant the concentration of every activity in the entire investigation upon this new angle.

STORY OF CRIME

Pieced out with answers to questions wired to Detroit by Sheriff W. I. Traeger, the "confession" of Taylor's murder is now in the hands of Los Angeles authorities in its entirety.

Fields' story is as follows:

"Taylor had declared war on the dope peddlers in the movie studios. He had administered a beating and used the toe of his boot on a certain 'doper' who had been supplying with drugs a motion picture actress in whom Taylor was interested.

"In revenge and to keep Taylor from ruining his business, this peddler swore to get him.

"The doper, whose full name has been furnished, conspired with a Chinese dope importer and two white women. They first talked over the murder plot in one of the beach towns.

"With details fully made, they hired me to drive them to Taylor's home. (Fields confessed to being a drug addict himself, as well as a member of the distributing ring.)

"The first night we waited in the car, but Taylor did not come out and there was no opportunity to get into his house.

"The next night — that of February 1 — we drove first to a 'hop joint' and later to Taylor's home again. We waited around awhile and saw Taylor come out of his house, escorting Mabel Normand, who had been calling on him.

"X, (the murderer), who had been lurking in the side alley smoking cigarets, slipped into the house. The two women moved along the sidewalk in opposite directions, acting as lookouts. I stayed in the car.

"X crouched behind a piece of furniture and waited, according to the story he told us, afterward. Taylor re-entered the house and seated himself at his desk.

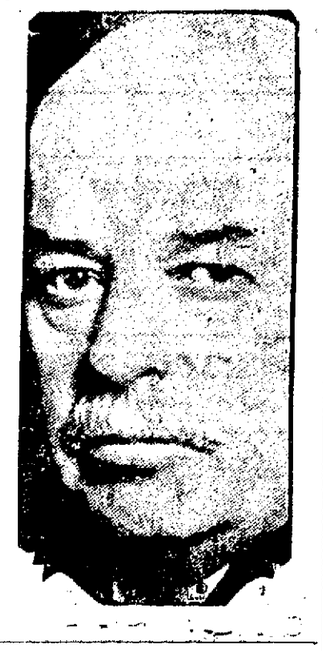

"X took aim from his place of concealment without wasting a minute, and sent a bullet into Taylor's back. Taylor fell to the floor, overturning the chair in which he had been sitting. X hurried from the house, not even pausing to ascertain if Taylor was dead.

"He got into the machine, as did the two lookouts, and I drove them away.

"We went to a spot in the outskirts of the city, where 'X' buried the gun. (The spot has been described in detail.) Early the next day 'X' went to a bank (named) where 'X' changed a $1,000 note and gave me $900 of it for my part of the affair.

"I took the next train out of Los Angeles and went to Buffalo."

SMALL TRIAL TO SET RECORD AS BIGGEST LEGAL BATTLE

WAUKEGAN, Ill.—(Special)—Governor Len Small of Illinois will face a jury in criminal court here March 6 to answer charges of having conspired to defraud this state of $2,000,000.

BY ROY GIBBONS

The trial will go down in American history as an unprecedented event.

For Small is the first governor in any state to stand trial by civil court during tenure of office.

He's likewise one of the few officials elected to high place to seek acquittal for alleged felony at the hands of the people over whom he rules.

The trial promises to be one of the biggest legal battles that ever has taken place in an American court.

Batteries of legal talent will be employed by both sides.

Cost of the trial will exceed $500,000, according to estimates.

500 WITNESSES

More than 500 witnesses will be summoned.

Judge Clair G. Edwards will act as trial judge.

Co-defendants of Small are Lieutenant Governor Fred E. Sterling and Vernon S. Curtis. Sterling will not be concerned in the trial here, having elected to be tried at Springfield, the state capital.

At the trial the state will seek to prove that Small, as state treasurer, and Sterling, who succeeded him as state treasurer, with the aid of the late Edward C. Curtis and his brother Vernon C. Curtis, both bankers, appropriated vast sums of state funds.

The bill of particulars charges:

THAT the defendants falsely pretended to the state that the place of deposit for state funds was a bank when it was not a bank.

THAT certificates of deposit issued for state funds by the Grant Park Bank, operated by the Curtis brothers, were "fraudulent."

THAT defendants pretended to receive about 2 per cent for the use of the state funds, whereas the interest actually paid them ranged from 5 per cent to 3 1-2 per cent.

THAT Governor Small and Lieutenant Governor Sterling maintained two sets of books, one of a "vault fund" deposited in bona fide banks and the other of a "safe fund" deposited in the Grant Park Bank, an institution which had ceased to exist.

THAT the funds loaned to the Grant Park Bank were in turn loaned to Chicago packing houses and that interest and profits from such loans over 2 per cent paid to the state, were kept by the defendants.

Small now is at liberty under $150,000 bonds.

DENY GUILT

He and his co-defendants stoutly maintain their innocence and declare that powerful political influences framed the charges against them to ruin their political and business careers.

Small declares if he is acquitted, he will start action against those who instituted the prosecution.

He promises to prosecute scores of witnesses summoned in the preliminary hearings last July who, his attorneys allege, perjured themselves.

RICKARD IS AGAIN INDICTED

Charged With Abducting Two Girls—Bond Increased

NEW YORK—(Associated Press)—Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, today was indicted twice by a supreme court grand jury on charges of abducting Anna Hess and Nellie Gasko, young school girls, and his bail was raised from $10,000 to $25,000. The lower amount was fixed a few days ago when Rickard was charged with criminal assault upon two other girls, both 15 years old.

Rickard pleaded not guilty to both indictments today as he had done to those previously returned against him. The Hess girl is 11 years old and the Gasko girl 14.

District Attorney Banton requested the higher bail because "it seemed from the public prints that Rickard no longer is connected with the business interests that he formerly had in this county.

Over protest of the promoter's counsel, Max D. Steuer, who said Rickard was anxious for an early trial, the bail was raised by Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel.

LODGE PROPOSES RESERVATION

Offers Change in Four-Power Pacific Treaty

MANY SENATORS OPPOSE IT

Would Put Act of Armed Force Up to Congress

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — A modified reservation to the four-power Pacific treaty, laid before the senate foreign relations committee today by Chairman Lodge, after a conference with President Harding, met with immediate opposition from several Republican as well as Democratic members.

The new reservation, intended as a substitute for that proposed several days ago by Senator Brandegee, Republican, Connecticut, provides that nothing in the treaty shall be construed as committing the United States to an exercise of armed force without the consent of congress. After more than an hour's debate, which failed to win over to the new proposal any of the senators who had supported the Brandegee reservation, the committee adjourned until tomorrow without action.

HARDING AGREES

Altho Senator Lodge did not inform his colleagues specifically as to the attitude of the president, other committee members gained the impression that the modified reservation would be acceptable to the White House. It had been discussed at the earlier conference between Mr. Lodge and Mr. Harding, but it was not formally offered to the committee with administration backing. The committee chairman said afterward that he had only "suggested" it.

Senators Borah, Republican, Idaho, and Johnson, Republican, California, both pronounced the modified draft as unsatisfactory, while Senator Brandegee and other Republican and Democratic senators held a conference and indicated by their attitude in the discussion that they did not find the new proposal really acceptable.

At the close of th committee session no member would predict whether the new reservation could meet with the approval of a majority of the committee, senators agreeing that much more discussion would be necessary to fully develop committee sentiment. It was said the result would be to increase confusion in the committee over the general treaty situation and to further delay a report on the four power pact.

Don't Have Time To Get Acquainted, He Asserts

Lieutenant Col. Charles A'Court Repington, British soldier, journalist, diarist and expert in military and foreign affairs, has written his view of America's influence in world affairs and his impressions of our leading statesmen. Having attended the disarmament conference, Col Repington has returned again for a lecture tour. Recently he has made a tour of Europe observing post-war conditions.

(BY LIEUTENANT COL. CHARLES A'COURT REPINGTON,) (British Foreign and Military Expert)

NEW YORK — (Special) — America's influence in world affairs suffers because the world knows so few of America's statesmen.

Only four with big names internationally are in public life just now—Harding, Hughes, Root and Hoover.

Your statesmen rise suddenly, and then fall and disappear with regrettable rapidity. Every four years you change everything, just as Europe and the rest of the world is getting acquainted with your leaders. And we have to start all over again in our study of American policies and statesmanship.

There seems to be no permanent and enduring political life for your statesmen as there is in Great Britain and other European countries.

We know plenty of great Americans in private life, in diplomacy and in the business and social world. But they are known to only a small circle, and they do not figure in American politics.

Wilson, we knew, but he is no longer in the front of your political stage. We know Roosevelt, but he is gone. We know none of the great figures among the governors of your states. I cannot find an American who can tell me the name of half a dozen.

The world ought to know what these statesmen are doing and thinking. English is a tremendous link, a bond of understanding between English-speaking countries. But co-operation would be advanced if we knew more of your great statesmen.

Your four big figures—Harding, Hughes, Root and Hoover—have made an impression upon the world.

PRESIDENT HARDING

President Harding is a very representative chief. He is a fine figure, who presents well; a great deal less of an autocrat than his predecessor, but gives one the impression of being a great force in reserve in case of future emergencies.

I admired the modesty with which he withdrew from the disarmament conference after the opening ceremonies and allowed the delegation to carry on. I hope the result will appear in the Senate discussion, and that he will be given time to settle up all treaties and resolutions to be given to the Senate and secure ratification by Congress before he is involved, or involves America, in the next great step forward in the path of progress he may have in mind.

SECRETARY HUGHES

Secretary Hughes was misunderstood by the English. Before he came to Washington we regarded him as a frosty Caucasus who was unlikely to fall under any genial inspiration. We found him on the contrary a wise and capable statesman who had powers of conciliation which we had never been led to expect in him.

He hurt the feelings of no one. His speeches were masterly, concise, logical, and had the supreme merit of brevity. His speech on limitation of naval armament Nov. 12 was one of the greatest world events in our time.

We regard Mr. Hughes as the mouthpiece of Mr. Harding and his government. You can choose a good mouthpiece or a bad mouthpiece—Mr. Hughes is a good mouthpiece.

We should like to see Mr. Hughes preside over a future conference in Washington or in Europe. We are all tied up in Europe with our treaties and our engagements with our allies, while America can stand above and apart, able to fulfill the role of arbiter in a sense that no European nation is able to do.

SENATOR ROOT

We have profound respect for your Senator Root. His informed and balanced statesmanship has always impressed us, and the four point which he laid down as the principles of future action of the powers in China I can only ascribe as gems of workmanship.

Mr. Hoover has won golden opinions thruout Europe; a master mind, with unequalled capacity for organization and for taking pains. I wonder how many tens of thousands of lives he has saved—he and all those from John D. Rockefeller downward who have made Hoover's work possible! I think that Hoover's experience is only an apprenticeship for greater work yet to be done.

WHAT THE GLANDS ARE— AND WHAT THEY DO

Experiments with ductless glands have convinced scientists that youth can be prolonged and death staved off by simple operations on these glands, while other scientists declare that substitution of glands can cure confirmed criminals. In this article Hereward Carrington, in simple language, unravels the gland mystery.

By HEREWARD CARRINGTON
Scientist and Author

NEW YORK—(Special)—Almost nothing was known about the most important parts of our bodies—the ductless glands—until 30 years ago.

These glands are so tiny and apparently insignificant that no anatomist even bothered to discover their functions or uses. And yet we now know that small as they are, without them life is extinguished and one dies within a few days!

Ordinary glands are provided with a canal (or duct) which leads either out of the body, or into its interior. The ductless glands have no obvious ducts or canals and their secretions are poured into the general blood stream directly and carried to the various organs and parts of the body.

WHAT GLANDS DO

These glands are:

Thyroid gland in the neck, which controls the growth of brain, organs and tissues, and regulates energy production in the body.

Pituitary, which is divided into two parts, anterior and posterior. This is a tiny gland in the center of the brain. The secretion of the anterior portion controls the growth of the bones in the body; while that of the latter posterior portion regulates, the nerve cells, the involuntary muscles and brain.

Adrenals, above the kidneys, are again divided into two portions, known as the "cortex" and the "medulla." The secretion of the cortex regulates brain growth and the sexual glands; while that of the medulla attends to the energy required for sudden emergencies, as combat or fear.

WHERE DUCTLESS GLANDS, RULERS OF YOUR BODY, ARE LOCATED.

Pineal gland is in the brain and attends to brain and sex development, and the development of adolescence and maturity. It is because of the action of this tiny gland that we "grow up."

Thymus gland, just over the heart, is the gland of childhood. It keeps us children, and sees that we do not grow up too fast.

Gonad, or sexual glands, peculiar to male and female, determine the differing qualities of men and women.

Parathyroids, behind the thyroid glands in the neck, control the lime metabolism (changes) in the body, and the degree of excitability of nerve and muscle.

Pancreas controls the sugar metabolism in the body—its mal-functioning giving rise to "diabetes."

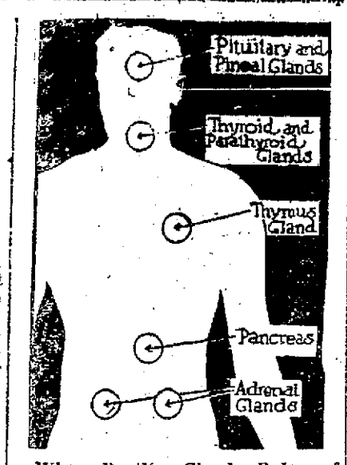

RULE WHOLE BODY

Every part and organ in the body is controlled by these glands. We depend upon them for our life, our bodies and even our minds, for it has been proved that if these glands are destroyed, the mind also withers and is destroyed.

Differing types of character and temperament, moods, emotions, facial characteristics, teeth, hair, eyes, hands, form, all are dependent upon the functioning of these ductless glands.

Our personality seems to depend upon them also. So that each type of persons represents a certain type of gland activity.

Even the character and composition of our minds seem to be determined by their subtle activities.

Where Ductless Glands, Rulers of Your Body, Are Located.

PIONEER OF THE OVERLAND MAIL

SOMERSET, Pa.—Irvin Pyle, 92, is the only surviving pioneer of the old overland mail.

Pyle drove the coach that carried the first mail between Salt Lake City, Utah, and Sacramento, Calif., in 1852. Before this he had spent two years in the California gold fields.

IRVIN PYLE

The trip from Utah to California required 30 days. Postage was $1.50 a letter. After four years' of fighting Indians, the "pony express" succeeded the coach and Pyle quit the service.

Pyle served thruout the Civil War in the Union army and still carries a piece of Confederate lead in his body.

TURPENTINE

A light sprinkling of turpentine on clothes that are liable to be moth eaten will keep the moths out.

FOR DANCING

Powdered borax will serve in place of wax when a floor is to be used for dancing and wax is not available. It sweeps up quite easily afterward.

SHOULDER LINES

Shoulder lines on gowns designed for evening wear are exceedingly irregular. One of the newest effects is a veiling of chiffon or lace for one shoulder while the other is left quite without any attempt at sleeve.

CHECK ALIEN TIDE, PLEA OF SECRETARY DAVIS HERE

Saving, Not Living Wage For Workers is Advocated

OPPOSED TO CHILD LABOR

Royal Welcome Given Visitor at Moose Dedication

Restriction of immigration, amending the labor laws governing employment of children, and a saving wage for workingmen, were three of the themes touched upon by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, in an address dedicating the new Moose temple, North and West-sts, Wednesday.

Incidentally, Secretary Davis made an interesting plea for the pet project of the lodge, Mooseheart, 1500 boys and girls, children of members who have died are being cared for and educated.

Davis touched briefly on the predicted miners strike, and said that in a recent coal tieup his task as mediator had been a hard one. The operators were stubborn and wrong and the miners equally so.

"The coming strike," and Davis believes there will be one, "may be difficult to solve," he said.

"TAKE CHILDREN FROM SHOPS"

With so many idle men roaming the country, Davis strongly advocates taking 2,000,000 children in industry out of the shops, mines and mills and placing them in school. Idle workmen should replace them, he declared.

"Your Department of Labor," Davis declared, "is doing practically everything from running a housing corporation to operating a 1,700 room hotel.

"How would you like to be running a hotel with 1,700 pretty stenographers living in it?" he asked the crowd. "Well I told them to run it themselves, and not bother me as long as their credit is on the right side of the ledger."

Davis sounded a solemn warning against the alien hordes that sweep overseas and ask admission. The 3 per cent law, he said, had resulted in thousands of appeals being made to him. In too many of these cases the facts are misrepresented.

"They will fool you with their sob stories if they can."

Diseases prevalent among immigrants, including leprosy force the department of labor to use great caution.

URGES REGISTRATION

Davis made a strong plea for the registration of aliens, a measure he said is suported by Congressman John Cable. Registration, according to the speaker would immediately cause deportation of some 30,000 aliens confined in prisons and insane hospitals.

"There is a great need for sifting out the undesirable element that comes to our shores," declared Davis.

"I am against the living wage," Davis told his audience. "It is not enough, unless a workman can lay by a little each week, America can never be the place we picture it."

Industrial conditions, especially those where women are employed should be continually improved. A survey is being made by the department, and Davis declared he was pleased with the manner in which employers have adopted the department's recommendations.

Davis spoke of his own youth, taking a 12 hour turn with his brother in the steel mills. Both boys, too young for the heavy tasks, and the younger afraid to go to the mill in the dark.

"Such things should not be," he said. "Some may come thru, but many will not."

Mooseheart, which Davis helped to found, was described in detail.

It is the intention of the Moose to give every child there, boy or girl a high school education and teach them a trade. More than 1,000 acres of land are owned by the Moose, and the surroundings were described by the speaker as being the most ideal of any similar institution in the world. In fact, Davis declared, there is no other place just like it.

MOTHERS REMAIN

No facility for their care or education has been omitted. Mothers who come with their little ones are allowed to remain with them.

Secretary Davis, did not address his audience in the voice of the polished orator, nor yet that of the political speaker. It was the appeal of one man to another.

He often paused, as if at a loss just how to drive his thought home, but when he did, he hit straight out from the shoulder.

Hundreds met Davis during his stay in Lima. Davis, accompanied by his reception committee reached Lima from Gomer shortly after 3 p. m. He was greeted by a throng at Moose Hall, and officially welcomed by a special committee representing the Chamber of Commerce, composed of Glenn Webb, A. C. Cajacob, and J. Kennard Johnosn. Harold Cunningham, president of the city commission, welcomed Davis in the name of the city.

SPEAKS AT Y. W. C. A.

At 6 p. m. Davis addressed the Y. W. C. A. industrial club, speaking on the position of women in industry.

He was very much pleased with his reception here, and praised Lima as one of the coming great cities of Ohio.

He paid tribute to the trials and achievements of the local Moose in erecting their new Temple, despite numerous handicaps.

BIG ARMY, NAVY CUT PLANNED

Will Save $275,000,000, Congress Leaders Claim

WASHINGTON — (United Press) —The army and navy will be cut almost to their pre-war strength in enlisted man power, with a saving of approximately $275,000,000 in the next fiscal year, under plans that were maturing rapidly among house leaders today.

A standing army of 100,000 and a navy enlisted personnel of 60,000 have been practically agreed on, according to Chairman Madden, of the house appropriations committee, and Chairman Butler of the naval committee.

The biggest saving will come from the navy cut, Chairman Butler of the naval committee, and Representative Madden, agree that with a reduction to 60,000 men, the navy appropriation bill for the next fiscal year starting July 1, can safely be trimmed $200,000,000 or nearly one-half. The navy got $417,000,000, last year.

The extent of the slice in army appropriations has not been determined by the sub-committee on army appropriations, its chairman, Representative Anthony of Kansas, said today. Anthony said, however, that at least $75,000 and perhaps more, could be lopped off.

The army committee is proceeding, Anthony said, on the theory that the army will be made smaller than one hundred thousand men.

JAP PARLIAMENT UNDER GUARD

Crowds, Demand Universal Suffrage, Storm Building

TOKIO—(United Press)—Troops and police were called today to guard the parliament building and the residences of prominent officials against demonstrations by advocates of universal suffrage for men. Between 7,000 and 10,000 troops were on guard duty during the day.

Up to 1 p. m. there had been no violence, the crowds surging around the various buildings apparently being held completely under control by the military.

The demonstrators demand practical withdrawal of the present property and other qualifications for voters.

Today's demonstrations mark the first move by Japanese liberals towards enforcing their demand for universal suffrage.

At present only a small percentage of the Japanese vote—about five per cent. Suffrage is granted to tax payers and property holders only, and few Japanese come under this head.

The demand for universal suffrage will, if successful, place the election of the government and direction of its policies, in the hands of the people instead of the few men at the top as at present.

Universal suffrage in Japan would mean the death knell of that country's present militarism, observers believe.

The question of female suffrage does not enter into the present agitation. It is universal male suffrage which the demonstrators are seeking.

OH BOY! REAL PIE!

Grangers of Perry-tp Serve it at Their Meeting

'Twas like hunting a needle in a haystack trying to find the open sesame to luscious cherry pies at the Perry-tp grange and Lima business men's meeting at the township house Wednesday night.

Pasteboard hatchets were cut in two and distributed among the 200 men, women and hildren. Nobody could get his pie unless his hatchet part had been matched.

Such a scramble! Evrybody made a concerted attack on everybody. Result: Everybody got no pie.

Said L. E. Shaw, master of the grange: "Folks, let's get some system into this. Match them one by one." Result: Everybody ate his fill of the cherry pastry.

Preceding the pie scramble Shaw delivered an address on the life of Washington. A score of school children gave readings, sang songs and played piano selections. A Lima orchestra filled in the intermissions.

Due to inclement weather attendance of local business men was small, but many of them will unite to return the grangers' hospitality with a similar pie festival March 15.

HEAVY FINE ASSESSED ON INTOXICATED AUTO DRIVER

Robert Dunson, 21, McGuffey, was fined $50 by Judge Jackson in criminal court Wednesday morning when he pleaded guilty to driving an auto on the public square Wednesday night while intoxicated. He was arrested by Patrolmen Landfair and Hamilton.

The practice of attempting the operation of autos while intoxicated is criminal, according to the judge. He declared he will permit none to escape a fine who is guilty of endangering life of others in that manner.

WAGES OF 10,000 MEN SLASHED

Labor Board Fixes Rate of Railroad Workers

TEN-HOUR DAY RESTORED

Firemen and Oilers Hit by the New Rules

CHICAGO — Associated Press)— Another pay slash, this time hitting 10,000 railroad firemen and oilers, was made by the United States railroad labor board today when it announced rules, effective March 1, eliminating extra pay until after the tenth hour and setting up a "split trick" of eight hours within a spread of twelve without any overtime pay.

Following several other decisions virtually restoring the ten-hour day for railroad workers, the board today authorized the roads to pay only pro rata wages after the regular eight hours which the board retained in principle as constituting a day's work.

Time and one-half will be paid after ten hours. In the case of the split trick straight time will be paid for the first ten hours work, whether included in the twelve hour spread or not, and time and one half will be given thereafter.

RATE FOR HOLIDAYS

Formerly the firemen and oilers, all of whom work around railroad shops, were paid time and one half after eight hours.

Sundays and holidays will be paid for at pro rata rate, a minimum of three hours pay being made for two hours work or less. Monthly rated employes' wages are to be adjusted to eliminate the old time and one half provisions.

Ten rules regarding discipline, grievances, discrimination against commiteemen and similar matters were remanded to the employes and the roads for further negotiation. The board's new rules supplant the national agreement made during federal control, which has been in effect since January 16, 1920.

HEALER APPEALS

Columbus Grove Man Fights Conviction and Fine

COLUMBUS GROVE — (Special) —Appeal of the case of the State of Ohio against Isaac Fullerton, alleged healer at Columbus Grove, to common pleas court, has been made.

Fullerton was found guilty, in a decision handed down Wednesday by Justice B. L. Griffith, Ottawa, of issuing medicine, and of infringing upon the rights of the medical profession. He was fined $100.

Attorneys for Fullerton announce they will carry the case to supreme court, if need be, in an effort to test the law concerning the case. The charge was preferred by the State medical association. Charges brought twice previously against Fullerton were dismissed.

Charges of a similar nature, brought at the same time against George Parker, Fullerton's assistant, were dismissed by Griffith.

In the meantime, upon advice of his attorneys, Fullerton will continue receiving at his sanitarium at Columbus Grove.

LEWIS' REQUEST REFUSED BY PITTSBURGH OPERATORS

CLEVELAND — The request of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, for a meeting in Cleveland, March 2, to thrash out the mine warke controversy was turnd down today by the Pittsburg Vein Operators' association, meeting here.

The operators notified Lewis however, that if he "is able to obtain a meeting at which the operators of the four states comprising the central competitive field will all be represented," they would send representatives to the meeting.

The refusal removed Cleveland as a possible battle ground between miners and operators in the attempt to prevent a nation-wide strike scheduled for April 1.

CHICKENS CAUSE COMPLAINT

Owners Must Keep Them at Home, Police Rule

Must chickens observe boundary lines the same as humans?

Polloe, who conducted a round-up of fowls belonging to Thomas Page, 1424 W. North-st, Thursday, say they do. A large flock was corralled after Hugh Galloway, colored, 1430 W. North-st, reported to police that Page's chickens were becoming too familiar.

Galloway declared his neighbor's feathered pets were destroying his shrubs and trees and appealed to police for a decision. It is as follows:

Section 1—Fowls shall remain within their own precincts, so provided by their owners. Fences shall be sufficiently high that said fowls cannot top them.

Section 2—It is not required of property owners that they erect barriers against nomadic fowls.

Section 3—But if chickens do trespass it is not allowed, except in "rare" instances, for those trespassed against to devour meat of said chickens thereof.

STOLEN CAR STANDS ON STREETS HERE FOR DAYS

Dale Cremean did something on his own account Wednesday afternoon and recovered an automobile stolen several days ago from I. W. Byerly, Bath-tp school man.

Cremean says it was so easy there was no element of detective work involved.

He had noticed a Ford touring car standing in Elizabeth-st between North and Wayne for several days. When it was not moved from the spot, his curiosity was aroused. He ascertained from the Thompson garage that the license had been issued to Byerly and remembered that Byerly's machine had been stolen. He notified the owner.

Chief Dawson said police knew nothing of the matter.

A Former Hospital Physician Says: "This is my favorite prescription for WEAK, THIN, NERVOUS, RUN-DOWN FOLKS." It often increases Strength, Energy and Vigor, and helps put on good firm flesh in two weeks' time.

"The report of the Medical Research Committee shows that if your food lacks one single mysterious food factor called Vitamines, you not only become emaciated, under-nourished, nervous and all-in but you may actually develop serious disease. In all such cases I suggest the following: Take two five-grain Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets before meals, and two five-grain Nuxated Iron Tablets after meals." By the use of this simple home prescription, people who have been suffering in some cases even for years, often quickly gain surprising strength and energy, put on good firm flesh, wonderfully round out face and figure, and become more alert and vigorous, both physically and mentally. By helping to create millions of new red blood cells, Nuxated Iron taken after meals unquestionably increases the power of the body to transform life-less food matter into living cells, flesh, muscle and tissue, and Vitamines taken before meals mix with your food and act as a powerful nutrition substance.

You may now obtain genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets, made from the original formula of Dr. Catrin of the Faculty of Medicine of Paris, from any good druggist. The principal ingredients of these tablets are the direct result of years of scientific study and research by able physicians and chemists, and they must not be confounded with so-called Vitamine tablets mixed largely with drugs.

To prove to you the superiority of these Genuine Yeast Vitamines, pure and unadulterated, over Vitamine tablets mixed with drugs, your druggist will give you a REGULAR DOLLAR PACKAGE ABSOLUTELY FREE with your purchase of a bottle of Nuxated Iron tablets, and if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from their use the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

IMPORTANT: We recommend that you do not take Vitamines unless you wish your weight increased—if you merely wish greater strength, energy, physical and mental vigor, we recommend that you take Nuxated Iron only.

Ceasing of Rain Allows Buyers to Jam Stores

Hundreds of buyers, many of whom came as far as 60 miles to secure bargains offered in Lima stores, flooded Lima's business section Thursday.

By noon many of them had completed their quest for merchandise and were enroute out of the city, laden with bundles.

Dollar Day, the semi-annual event of Lima merchants, opened a trifle inauspiciously, due to threatening rain.

Despite this, few shoppers from suburban territory were restrained from coming to Lima. "It is the best day we've had," declared one merchant.

They poured in by trolley, steam lines, motor car and even the old spring wagon on some farms was pressed into service.

Local buyers, who were kept at home by rain, took heart when the skies cleared and were down town early.

When front doors of many stores were unlocked at 8 a. m., waiting shoppers rushed in to snap up some specially priced articles.

Dollar Day this season will prove as profitable to merchant and public as any in past years, is the opinion of M. Mittenthal, president of the Lima Merchants' association.

MINSTREL IS HIT

Will be Repeated Tonight for Members and Ladies

The hundreds of Elks who saw the club's minstrel show Wednesday night voted that the advance dope was not exaggerated. The show was declared the best ever presented by the club.

Jack Beall's gang went over big. The male chorus, the personnel of which is almost the same as last year, was better than ever and showed careful training at the hand of Fred Calvert.

The troupe was outfitted completely in brilliant new uniforms. The black-face boys were especially good.

The show will be repeated Thursday night for the benefit of members and their ladies.

The show Thursday night followed a big "feed" at which more than 600 were served. This was preceded by the annual Washington day initiation at which approximately 50 candidates were made Bills.

OUR CURIOSITY

WHEN you are downtown and see a crowd gathering around something on the sidewalk, do you like to shoulder in and see what's going on?

"What's wrong? Is it a drunken man?"

And isn't the excitement doubled if a police patrol wagon stands nearby?

Behold, at work, curiosity—the mysterious trait of human nature that is behind all progress and all downfall. You find it in Lima just as you find it the world over.

YOU see curiosity at work now in London, where Rubber Necks are paying $75 a seat for a glimpse of the royal parade from Buckingham palace to Westminster Abbey Feb. 28, Princess Mary's wedding day.

The same curiosity once saved Napoleon his head. He was in Paris, frowning anxiously at threatening revolutionary murmurs. Five days were necessary to get enough troops into town to check an uprising.

So Napoleon bought a lot of gold leaf and had workmen gild a giant dome in the center of Paris. The populace became so interested in watching the growth of the gold marvel and wondering why-and-wherefore, that they forgot the proposed revolt until Nap's troops poured in from the distance.

A FEW years ago, a New York clubman bet $5000, even money, that he could gather a crowd of 5000 in and around Times Square in 10 minutes.

All he did was walk out into the middle of the street, stop with an exclamation of surprise, and begin staring at the sky. Nearby Rubber Necks also paused and looked upward, curious to learn what aroused interest. The curiosity contagion spread. Police reserves had to be called out to break the traffic jam, the clubman won his bet.

Great is the power of curiosity, mighty above nearly all things. Your income will climb to dizzy figures if you can figure out a new way to turn curiosity into profits.

Window decorators in large cities sometimes get very large salaries. Yet no window display is as attractive as this one: The window pane is painted black. In the center, a dollar-sized peep-hole, powerful electric light pouring thru it, a white arrow pointing at the hole.

Arrange such a mysterious stage setting and the crowd will fight each other for a chance to get to the hole and see what's inside.

At its best, life is dull. Curiosity is the search for something new and interesting. Find that interesting thing—satisfy curiosity—and name your own price.

AFTER DEATH

SUPPOSE you and a friend ran away from civilization and built a log cabin in the woods.

After finishing, you'd say: "Well, that's a pretty good job for just the two of us."

Then, turning philosophical, you'd add: "Of course, we have to give some credit to the many men, now dead, who invented axes, saws, hammers and nails for us. Without their efforts, the job would have taken us much longer. In effect, the dead men exercised the same influence as if they were here and helped us."

Look about you and you'll observe that nearly everything you use in daily life is a gift from the dead.

The inventors have passed on. But, thru their creations, they continue as active producers.

If all traces of former generations were erased (including inventions, short-cut production methods and fixed wealth, like buildings and roads) it would require eight men to do the work now done by one.

This is the estimate of the celebrated engineering scientist, Alfred Korzybski.

He reasons that the world really is populated today by three different populations, all of them dynamic and active:

ONE—1,600,000,000 living men.

TWO—10,000,000,000 living man-powers of the dead.

THREE—1,600,000,000 sun man-powers.

The sun man-power locked up in coal was on earth, ready to be used, thousands of years ago when man produced only by the brute force of his muscles.

Today, with this force harnessed, one man can do the work that formerly required many.

With each generation, the standard of living advances. And each generation flatters itself that it alone is responsible for the advance.

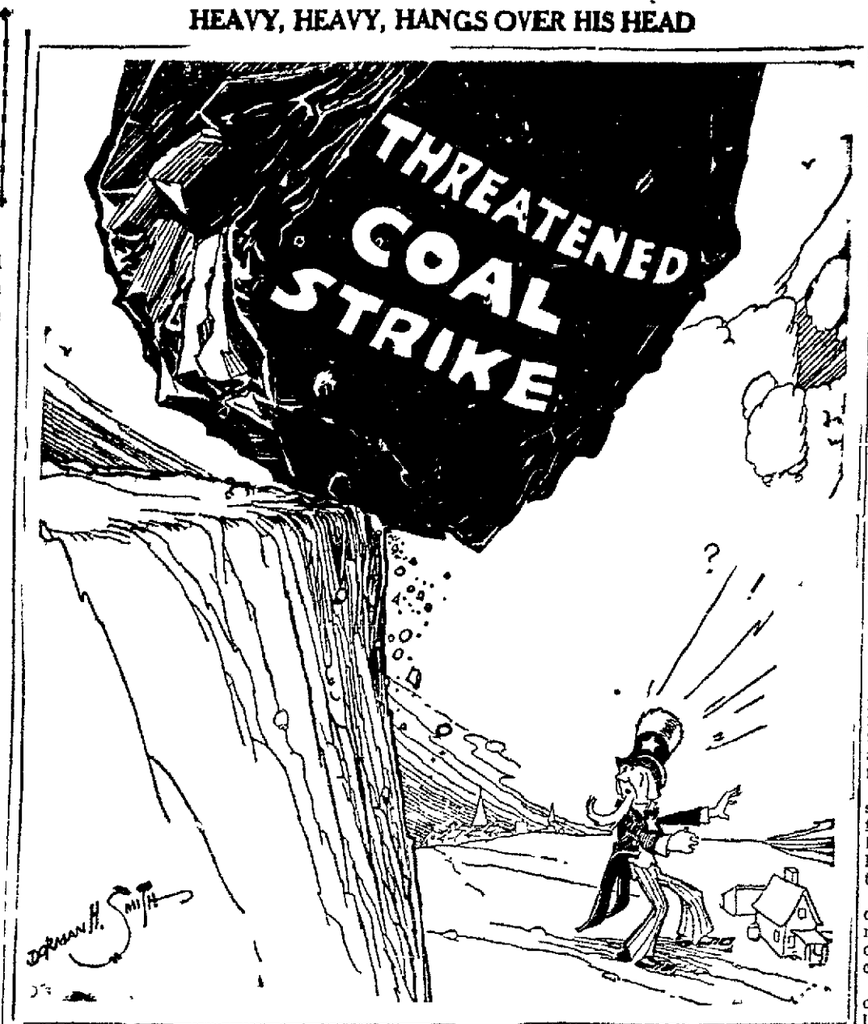

As a matter of fact, most of the advance is a gift from the dead, the accumulation of their efforts and discoveries.

Similarly, we of this generation are preparing the standard of living for generations to follow.

Man thus operates in an unlimited expanse of time.

Human energy and productive effort are immortal.

BLUE BLOOD AND RED

I rise at noon, from that time on
I set the social pace,
At teas and balls, in dancing halls,
Is where you'll find my face.
I have my riding stables and
My autos—closed, of course,
And when I'm tired of motoring
I jog out on my horse
Twixt golf and bridge, my time is spare,
For I must have my game;
I live a life of little care—
Yes, Blue Blood is my name!

I rise at six each week-day morn'
And start the business wheels
On turns of real prosperity
That all the country feels,
I have my hands, I have my head,
I use my brain and brawn,
And I will still be using them
When idle hands are gone.
Twixt work and home I live a life
That keeps my mind in frame
To know the word "appreciate"—
Yes, Red Blood is my name!

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

Washing Won't Rid Head Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

—REDUCING—

(BY DR. R. H. BISHOP)

Why is it that constant, persistent exercise often proves futile in reducing fat people? It is because such exercise serves to increase their appetites and to make them eat all the more

A fat man of course, requires less fuel in proportion to his weight than an ordinary man. The fat on his body represents dead weight. The actual amount of muscle that he has may be no more and oftentimes is less than that of another man who does not weigh as much.

Exercise becomes less and less a habit with men as they grow older, but the habit of eating aboundantly is not dulled in proportion.

They keep up the eating habits formed in more active years, with the result that they steadily take into their bodies more fuel than the bodies can burn up and they gradually increase in weight.

Too much fat often lays the foundation for troubles with heart and kidneys and fat men are often predisposed to gout. It is far more difficult to reduce after the fat is on the body than to keep the weight at a normal figure by consistent efforts to lower the food intake.

Foods very high in fuel value such as fats and dishes containing fat in large quantities should be religiously avoided. Bulky foods of low food value should be substituted to satisfy the eager appetite.

Clear soups should take the place of cream soups, butter and cream must be almost eliminated. Sugar ought to be used very sparingly and candy avoided.

Green vegetables of all kinds, raw or plainly cooked, as cabbage, celery, lettuce, spinach, asparagus, cauliflower, can be eaten freely.

Bread, cereals, potatoes, and such starchy foods should be taken in small quantities and can often be omitted.

Fresh fruits should frequently be substituted for puddings, cakes and pies Lean meats cooked simply may be used freely if green vegetables are also included

Hips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. SIBBERT, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

It has done this for many, many women; why not give it a fair trial—now.

So to save the little fishes, I routed myself homeward bound, passing Simon Fishel selling real estate to a bootlegger I once well knew as a church janitor.

At lunch over the oysters which could not have maintained health another 24 hours, my wife tossed me a gay salute from Mrs. Dwight Goodyear. Writing she was from Cairo, not West but Egypt, with the Arabs jumping on and off their desert ponies, beneath her balcony; and pons she is intrigued (I like that word) with the puissant atmosphere of this Far East.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

DEW TOWN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Nozzles for the hose," answered the fairy, touching his cap

Scootalong stopped the funny little train in Dew Town and again they all got out.

"This is where the dew fairies live," explained Buskins, "and as they are very busy now, we must not disturb them. It is the very busiest time of year."

The twins wondered what there was to be so busy about, dew being only tiny drops of water and easily scattered. Surely it wasn't any harder than sprinkling clothes for ironing.

But suddenly they heard a great hammering and on turning a corner they beheld an unusual sight, something they were not looking for at all. A thousand little workmen were hustling about in overalls and caps and working as tho there was never to be another day. Indeed they were so busy that Nancy whispered she thought they should be called "do fairies" instead of "dew fairies."

The little girl had visions of lovely sprites with gauzy wings floating gracefully here and there and dripping crystal drops from their fingers. This wasn't her idea of dew fairies at all!

But Nick was delighted beyond words at the sight of the sturdy, grimy little figures wheeling wheelbarrows, shoveling coal into furnaces, and keeping up a constant racket. Such a din and roar was music to his ears. It was exactly like the mill his daddy had taken him to once in the city. When he grew up he was going to work in just such a place. But in Fairyland it was rather odd!

"What are you doing?" he called out to a queer little fellow, nearly as black as a chimney-sweep. 'What do you make in this place?"

"Nozzels for the hose," answered the fairy touching his cap. "And watering pots. We use them both to sprinkle the flowers."

"Oh, don't you make dew?" asked Nancy.

"No," he answered. "We get that out of the lakes and rivers."

ERSKINE DALE PIONEER

JOHN FOX Jr.

"Catch her!" cried the mother. "Quick!" Erskine fled after her, overtook her with her hands upraised for the plunge on the very edge of the cliff, and half carried her, struggling and sobbing, back to the tent. Within the girl dropped in a weeping heap, and with her face covered, and the woman turned to Erskine, agonized.

"I told her," she whispered, "and she was going to kill herself. You are my son!"

* * *

Still sleepless at following dawn, the boy rode Firefly into the woods. At sunset he came in, gaunt with brooding and hunger. His mother, watching from her wigwam, understood and grew fearful. Quickly she called him, and he rose and went to her bewildered; she was smiling.

"I have decided," he said. "You and she must leave here and go with me."

His mother pretended much displeasure. "She will not leave, and I will not leave her"—her lips trembled—"and I would have gone long ago but—"

"I understand," interrupted Erskine," but you will go now with your son."

The poor woman had to scowl.

"No, and you must not tell them. They will never let me go, and they will use me to keep you here. You must go at once. Some day—" She turned abruptly and went into her tent. Erskine wheeled and went to old Kahtoo.

"I am a soldier and must obey the big chief's commands, as must you."

"I shall live," said the old man wearily, "until you come again."

Erskine nodded and went for his horse. Black Wolf watched him with malignant satisfaction, but said nothing—nor did Crooked Lightning. Erskine turned once as he rode away. His mother was standing outside her wigwam. Mournfully she waved her hand. Behind her and within the tent he could see Early Morn with both hands at her breast.

XIX

Dawned 1781.

The war was coming into Virginia at last. Virginia falling would thrust a great wedge thru the center of the Confederacy, feed the British armies and end the fight. Even the great Washington was near despair, and in foreign help his sole hope lay. Already the traitor, Arnold, had taken Richmond, burned warehouses, and returned, but little harassed to Portsmouth.

Cornwallis was coming on: Tarleton's white rangers were bedevilling the land, and it was at this time that Erskine Dale once more rode Firefly to the river James.

The boy had been two years in the wilds. When he left the Shawnee camp winter was setting in, that terrible winter of '79—of deep snow and hunger and cold. When he reached Kaskaskia, Captain Clark had gone to Kentucky, and Erskine found bad news. Hamilton and Hay had taken Vincennes. There Captain Helm's Creoles, as soon as they saw the redcoats, slipped away from him to surrender their arms to the British, and thus deserted by all, he and the two or three Americans with him had to give up the fort.

The two years in the wilderness had left their mark on Erskine. He was tall, lean, swarthy, gaunt, and yet he was not all woodsman, for his born inheritance as gentleman had been more than emphasized by his association with Clark and certain Creole officers in the Northwest, who had improved his French and gratified one pet wish of his life since his last visit to the James—they had taught him to fence.

His mother he had not seen again, but he had learned that she was alive and not yet blind. Of Early Morn he had heard nothing at all.

Once a traveler had brought word of Dane Grey. Grey was in Philadelphia and prominent in the gay doings of that city.

After the battle at Piqua, Erskine put forth for old Jerome Sander's fort. He found the hard days of want over. There was not only corn in plenty but wheat, potatoes pumpkins, turnips, melons.

Honor Sanders and Polly Conrad had married, bu when Erskine bade Lydia Noe good bye she told him to carry her love to Dave Yandell.

There were many, many travelers on the Wilderness Road now, and Colonel Dale's prophecy was coming true. The settlers were pouring in and the long, long trail was now no lonesome way.

At Williamsburg Erskine learned many things. Colonel Dale, now a general, was still with Washington and Harry was with him. Hugh was with the Virginia militia and Dave with Lafayette.

Tarleton's legion of rangers in their white uniforms were scourging Virginia as they had scourged the Carolinas. Thru the James River country they had gone with fire and sword.

Barbara's mother was dead. Her neighbors had moved to safety, but Barbara, he heard, still lived with old Mammy and Ephraim, at Red Oaks, unless that, too, had been recently put to the torch. Where, then, would he find her?

XX

Down the river Erskine rode with a sad heart. At the place where he had fought with Grey he pulled Firefly to a sudden halt. There was the boundary of Red Oaks and there started a desolation that ran as far as his eye could reach.

Red Oaks had not been spared, and he put Firefly to a fast gallop.

Son over a distant clump of trees he could see the chimneys of Barbara's home—his home, he thot helplessly—and perhaps those chimneys were all that was left.

And then he saw the roof and upper windows and so pulled Firefly in again, with overwhelming relief, and wondered at the miracle.

Again he started and pulled in when he caught sight of three horses hitched near the stiles. Turning quickly from the road, he hid Firefly in the underbrush. He slipped along the path and lay down where, unseen, he could peer thru the closely matted hedge.

A white uniform issued from the great hall door and another and another—and after them Barbara—smiling.

The boy's blood ran hot—smiling at her enemies.

Two officers bowed, Barbara courtesied, and they wheeled on their heels and descended the steps.

The third stayed behind a moment, bowed over her hand and kissed it. The watcher's blood turned then to liquid fire.

Great God, at what price was that noble old house left standing? They were coming now. The bay had his pistols out, primed and cocked. He was rising on his knees, just about to leap to his feet and out into the road, when he fell back into a startled paralyzed, inactive heap.

Glimpsed thru an opening in the bushes, the leading trooper in the uniform of Tarelton's legion was Dane Grey, and Erskine's brain had worked quicker than his angry heart. This was a mystery that must be solved before his pistols spoke. He rose crouching as the troopers rode away. A startled gasp once more behind him made him wheel, pistol in hand, to find a negro.

"Marse Erskine!" he gasped. It was Ephraim, the boy who had led Barbara's white ponies out long, long ago. "Whar' yo' hoss? Gawd, I'se sutn'ly glad to see yuh." Erskine pointed to an oak.

"Put him in the stable and feed him."

The negro shook his head.

"No, suh. I'll take de feed down to him. Too many redcoats messin' round heah."

"How is Miss Barbara?"

The negro's eyes shifted.

"She's well."

"Wasn't one of those soldiers who just rode away Mr. Dale Grey?"

The negro hesitated.

"Yassuh."

"Go tell Miss Barbara I'm here and then feed my horse."

Ephraim went swiftly and Erskine followed to the kitchen door, where Barbara's faithful old Mammy was waiting with a smile of welcome.

"I tol' Miss Barbary, suh. She's waitin' fer yuh in de hall."

Barbara, standing in the hall doorway, heard his step.

"Erskine!" she cried softly, and she came to meet him, with both hands outstretched, and raised her lovely face to be kissed. "What are you doing here?"

"I am on my way to join General Lafayette.

"But you will be captured. It is dangeou. The country is full of British soldiers."

"So I know," Erskine said dryly.

"When did you get here?"

"Twenty minutes ago. I would not have been welcome just then. I waited in the hedge. I saw you had company."

"Did you see them?" she faltered.

"I even recognized one of them." Barbara sank into a chair, her elbow on one arm, her chin in her hand, her face turned, her eyes looking outdoors. She said nothing, but the toe of her slipper began to rap the floor gently.

"Barbara," Erskine said with some sternness, "what does all this mean? Why did they spare the house?"

"Dane Grey saved our home."

"How did he get in communication with Tarleton when he was an officer in the American army?" The girl would not answer.

"He fought once under Benedict Arnold—perhaps he is fighting with him now."

"No!" she cried hotly..

"Then he must be a —"

She did not allow him to utter the word.

"Why Mr. Grey is in British uniform in his secret—not mine.

"And why he is here is—yours."

"Exactly!" she flamed. "You are a soldier. Learn what you want to know from him. You are my cousin, but you are going beyond the rights of blood. I won't stand it—I won't stand it—from anybody."

"I don't understand you, Barbara. That last time it was Grey, you—and now—"

Gas, Indigestion, Stomach Misery —"Diapepsin"

"Pape's Diapepsin" "really does" put bad stomachs in order — "really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas heartburn and sourness in five minutes — that — just that — makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing — almost marvelous — and the joy is its harmlessness. A large sixty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin is worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home — should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the most efficient antacid and stomach regulator in the world. —Adv.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who finally made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state.

Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womankind. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has entirely eradicated their distressing ailments.

More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's called An-uric (for kidneys and backache), has been successfully used by many thousands who write Dr. Pierce of the benefits received—that their backache, rheumatism, and other symptoms of uric acid deposits in joints or muscles have been completely conquered by its use.

BLOOMING PLANTS

All blooming plants need light and should be turned daily so they do not develop one-sided. A window in a room in which they are should be opened for at least 10 minutes daily. If the weather is cold the plants should be removed to the far side of the room.

DEAD LEAVES

Never allow dead leaves to remain on your house plant. They should be cut off as soon as they appear.

SHOPPING HINT

Slip a few strong rubber bands into the shopping bag before you start out in the morning. They are useful in holding several small bundles together and thus making more room in the bag.

MATERIALS

Canton crepe and crepe Romaine are the leading materials for spring. Canton crepe is used more for the simple sports models while crepe Romaine is used for the beaded gowns.

CHEESE

Sprinkle grated cheese on the canned pears and serve them on a lettuce leaf with mayonnaise. They make a delicious salad, thus treated.

GLOVES

Gloves which open at one side of the hand instead of the front are new and interesting. They come in black, white and tan kid with rather a wide cuff

POLLY AND PAUL --AND PARIS

By ZOE BECKLEY.

SOME PARTY

The wettest of wet blankets was fast putting out the fire of their merriment when Clotilde Dubois went to the door. She spoke quietly to the angry neighbor, calling him by name. He stared illnaturedly, but recognized the concierge's daughter.

"Come, come, Monsieur, you know quite well that the French law permits each tenant one noisy party a month! We have not disturbed you before, we shall not again. You can sleep late tomorrow, you know! Good night."

He went off, grumbling and muttering, followed by the "Bon soirs" and "Dormi biens" of the company, who bubbled into fresh gaiety.

"Is that really true about being allowed one party a month?" laughed Polly.

"Of course it is," said Clotilde. "He knows it quite well."

"Thought we were foreigners and wouldn't know, so he tried to throw a bluff, eh? Well, the company will now render that classic ballad entitled 'We won't go home until morning'." Paul performed the accompaniment with ragtime flourishes. Barray and Revelle had never heard it, and had to be taught.

Then Polly showed them how to sing "rounds," and presently they were all doing "Three Blind Mice" and "Oh, How Lovely Is the Evening" with ambitious "blendings" and counterpoint which finished in gales of giggles.

This gave them good appetites and when Polly and Norma brought out the platters of sandwiches, the huge bowl of salad, the plates of little cakes and Paul's noble punch, the guests fell upon them with ravenous rhapsodies.

"I wish to propose Madame Dawson's name," shouted Barray, getting onto a chair and waving his sixth sandwich, "as presidente of the Society of Immortal Chefs! Hip, hip—"

"Hoo-RAY!" The walls quivered.

Polly was decorated with a star made from the tinfoil of a cigarette box and borne by Paul to a throne on the piano-top. When she had graciously dispensed the last marron glace, the last crumb of the petits fours and the final drop of punch, she was handed down, stepping gracefully on the piano-keys which emitted strange minor dissonances.

Violet seated herself at the instrument and cleverly took up the theme, improvising something that finally melted into an old fashioned sentimental song. Somebody snapped off the electric light, leaving only the candles, and Violet continued the music, softly.

The company quieted down into chatting "groups of two"—Clotilde and Revelle; Norma Bradly and the Englishman, Polly and Barray. No one noticed when Violet stopped playing and stood by the window, flooded now with moonlight which the candles did not drown.

There was a strange look on her face. The confident, mocking Violet was gone. Violet, quiet and grave-eyed, stared out into the moonlit court . . . Paul crossed the room and stood beside her.

Polly saw him; saw Violet's lonely, far-off look. But she had her guests to attend to. Mechanically she went on talking to Barray, but could not detach her mind from those two at the window.

EMBROIDERING AN AID

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK—If there is a season during which the woman of fashion must tread lightly along the ways of the smart, it is at that period when she selects the wardrobe for her stay at a nearby winter resort.

Her desire, of course, is to be the essence of summer smartness—but even at the resorts there are cold days and for those one must be prepared.

Thus one suit which affords some warmth with its smartness goes along with the vacation wardrobe. This Claire model is the type that is being shown for such a purpose. Very chic in the straightness of its line, slimly lovely it quite fills the need of the between-weather day.

The medium for the suit is sand colored tricotine. And notice, the long straight jacked is equipped with three graduated pockets.

LETTERS TO LOVERS

BY WINONA WILCOX

Do fiction and the movies and the drama put false ideas about love and lovers into the minds of maidens?

Thus must run the inevitable inquiry after reading the following:

"Where are the men one reads about in books?

"I mean the clean, strong, manly man, the one who enjoys the right kind of a good time with a girl who enjoys the same thing. Do such men exist?

"I'm a girl of a family as old as the community, a family which always has stood for the big and the true. I'm not 23, and a collegee graduate. I wear the right clothes, am called beautiful, and am employed in one of the 'isolated' professions where I never meet men.

"I have many men friends in our family's social life, but, oh! they are not the kind I want to marry! I like my work, but certainly it doesn't satisfy all the desires of my heart.

"Frankly, I'd like to meet the right man and settle down in the biggest and noblest career open to a woman. I know I could make the right man happy.

"I have a truly wonderful father. Sometimes I fancy I have set too high a standard for young men and that I am dissatisfied because the men I might marry do not measure up to it.—M. A. B."

The young woman has analyzed herself exactly. Often it happens that the daughter of an extraordinary man establishes a test for young men which they cannot pass.

Doubtless the girl has formed an idea of what her husband should be from what her father is. Unfairly, but unintentionally, she expects her young men friends to possess the wisdom which accrues only from the hard experience of long years.

More than one fine girl, has preferred to remain a spinster rather than put up with a boy of her own age until he developed to her father's level!

Now, spinsterhood is honorable and admirable, but it is a lonesome profession, as the modern girl fully realizes

Sometimes I wonder why girls, today sophisticated in so many ways, think only half way to the end of the marriage problem. This girl finds herself in a cloistered profession. She knows that propinquity and opportunity are necessary ingredients of the wedding cake. She knows that when a man wishes to marry he goes where he can find a girl who suits his financial condition as well as his heart.

Why should a girl do differently?

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BANANA DISHES

Sister Mary Suggests Ways to Prepare Them

Bananas seem to have a rather bad reputation but the truth is that a perfectly ripe banana or a cooked one is easily digested and nutritious.

If buying the fruit for cooking, rather green bananas should be chosen. If the fruit is to be used raw a banana with blackened skin without a trace of green even at the very end should be used.

However the fruit may be used, always remove all the strings, and scrape off the outside film if the fruit is used uncooked.

These recipes may solve the problem for "something different."

BANANAS WITH POACHED EGGS

Peel and scrape bananas. Cut in half lengthwise and then cut these pieces in halves. Roll in flour lightly seasoned with salt and pepper and fry each piece in butter. Serve on a platter with poached eggs for breakfast or luncheon. Allow one banana for two persons. Drain the bananas on heavy brown paper before serving.

BANANA FRITTERS

Four bananas, 3-4 cup flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon cream, 1 yolk of egg, 2 whites of eggs, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, few gratings nutmeg, 1-3 cup warm water.

Mix and sift flour, salt, paprika and nutmeg. Melt butter. Add yolk of egg, butter and cream and stir until smooth, adding water slowly. Beat well and let stand for 30 minutes. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into mixture.

Peel and scrape bananas. Cut in quarters as in the preceding recipe. Dip each piece in the batter and coat completely. Drop in deep hot fat and fry till a golden brown. Drain on brown paper and serve. These are a good accompaniment with lamb chops or roast fowl.

LUNCHEON BAKED BANANAS

Four bananas, 8 very thin slices of bacon, very thin pinch mustard, few gratings nutmeg.

Peel and scrape bananas and cut in half lengthwise. Put in a baking dish and sprinkle with mustard and nutmeg. Cover with bacon and bake in a hot oven till bacon is crisp and bananas are soft. It will take about half an hour.

BAKED BANANA PUDDING

Two bananas, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons milk, 3 eggs.

Peel and slice bananas and sprinkle with lemon juice. Cream butter and beat in sugar. Beat in each egg yolk separately. Stir in flour and add bananas. Beat the whites of the eggs till stiff and dry and fold into first mixture. Pour into well buttered individual molds and bake in a pan of hot water for 35 minutes. Serve with whipped cream or fruit sauce.

WET SHOES

Wet shoes should never be put near the fire to dry. This ruins the leather and spoils the shape. They should be put on trees and left in a place of moderate temperature.

BIRDS ON HAT

Many of the smartest of the small hats arriving from Paris are trimmed with a single bird—the whole bird is used, from bill to tail feather.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart:

I AM a man of 23 years and am in love with a girl who lives in the country. She says that she loves me and that she does not care for any other man. Her father insists that she marry a man who works on their farm. She does not love this man and refuses to marry him. She is very unhappy. Her father will not permit me to call on her. I have a very good position and everyone speaks well of me. Don't you think that I have a right to marry this girl when our love is mutual? What is your advice? My fiancee is 18 years of age.

DISTRESSED

* * *

Your fiancee is doing right, of course, in refusing to marry any man whom she does not love. It is wrong for her father to insist that she wed a man for whom she has no love. She is very young now and you should not ask her to marry you against her father's wishes and without his knowledge. Both you and she are young and I think you can afford to wait for a year or so until you can win her father's sanction.

Try to prove to your fiancee's father that you are industrious and ambitious and that you will be fully able to support a home in reasonable comfort.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart:

I am a woman 30 years old. I suppose it seems ridiculous that I should be writing to ask anyone's advice but sometimes it helps immensely. I have been going with a splendid man for some time. He is thoughtful and considerate and everything that a woman could desire in a husband. He has asked that I marry him. I love him but cannot decide what to do as we are of different nationalities. What would your advice be?

ONE IN DOUBT

If you really love this man I feel that his character, good traits and personality should be considered and not his nationality. Since you care for him and are certain that he will make an ideal husband and one whom you can respect and admire, I see little reason why his nationality should be an obstacle in the way of your happiness.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart:

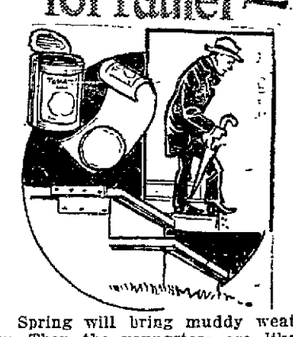

Would you be so kind as to give me an outline of Scott's "Ivanhoe?" I just want a very few lines, giving me some idea of the theme.

THANK YOU

It is unjust to such a fine book to attempt to outline it in a few words. However, "Ivanhoe" is laid in England during the time of the reign of Richard I (1190). The story deals with knights of that day Normans and Saxons, serfs and monks. The plot motif revolves about Rowena, daughter of Cedric the Saxon, a mysterious knight and old Isaac, the Jew, and his beautiful daughter, Rebecca.

TO M. A. D.: I cannot tell you where you might purchase the book you mentioned. I have never heard of it and the book stores do not seem to be familiar with it.

FURNACE MUST BE GIVEN AIR

Just As Necessary As Coal, Washington Expert Says

KEEPS THE FIRES GOING

Advice is Given As to Treatment of Heaters

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—Advice to operators of house-heating furnaces, who under the keen urge of chill blasts of winter have applied to the Bureau of Mines for a solution of difficulties experienced in caring for their fires overnight, is given in a statement made today by O. P. Hood, chief mechanical engineer of the bureau.

There are several ways of managing a furnace, as there are several ways of driving a horse, says Mr. Hood. The general principle is quite obvious, but that principle can be applied in different ways. In the process of combustion two quantities must be supplied—coal and air. The coal one pays for, the air one gets for nothing, but the quantity of air required in weight is from twelve to twenty times as much as the quantity of coal required. If one had to pay for air he would pay a great deal more attention to the supply of this necessary material, Mr. Hood says.

OVERNIGHT FIRES

Given a bed of coals that are red hot, the fire will burn just in proportion as air is fed thru the fuel bed. The question of keeping a fire over night, Engineer Hood asserts, is one of having a bed of fuel large enough so that at least the center of it can keep red hot without being chilled by the cold sides of the furnace or the cold ash pit below. If absolutely no air was fed thru the fuel bed, in time the fire would go out because of loss of heat. The problem, then, is to feed just enough air thru the fuel bed to maintain temperature.

The ash pit of most furnaces leaks enough air so that if there was a considerable draft or suction above the fuel bed produced by the chimney, more air would leak into the ash pit and up thru the fuel bed than enough to simply maintain the temperature, Mr. Hood explains. Too much air fed thru the fire would burn up the coal and the fire would not keep. The problem, then, is to cut down the flow of air thru the fuel bed. This can be done in numerous ways; one can put on a large amount of coal and cover the top with very fine coal, or even with ashes.

LEGION CHIEF PLEADS FOR RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE

INDIANAPOLIS — A plea for religious tolerance has been made by Stanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, in a letter to the editor of "The Protestant," published in Washington, D. C., it was announced today.

"This country," the letter says, 'was formed by men who sought religious tolerance and it is that spirit which has made it free, fine and worth living in. I happen to be Protestant and attend a Protestant church, but as a member of many Masonic bodies, of which I have taken a more or less active part, I have great admiration for that institution, the Catholic church. Its stand and teachings for the preservation of the integrity of our lawful government are well exemplified in the heroic deaths of men who served in my own command, and might I add that the chaplains of that faith gave human touch to their splendid service that made them loved by all, Protestant and Catholic alike."

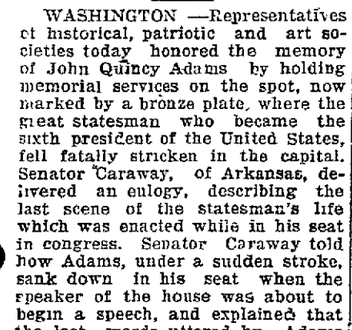

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD FOR JOHN QUINCY ADAMS

WASHINGTON —Representatives of historical, patriotic and art societies today honored the memory of John Quincy Adams by holding memorial services on the spot, now marked by a bronze plate, where the great statesman who became the sixth president of the United States, fell fatally stricken in the capital. Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, delivered an eulogy, describing the last scene of the statesman's life which was enacted while in his seat in congress. Senator Caraway told how Adams, under a sudden stroke, sank down in his seat when the speaker of the house was about to begin a speech, and explained that the last words uttered by Adams were "thank the members of the house. This is the last of earth. I am content."

The memorial program was arranged by Miss Byrd Mock, who has arranged a series of memorial services for the "makers of America" among whom she places musicians, writers, painters and sculptors on an equal footing with former presidents of the United States and other distinguished men.

Modern "Maid of Athens" Studies Law to Understand Women's Rights

ATHENS — (Special)— If Lord Byron were to sing of the maid of Athens today it is quite probable he would modify his poesy. Instead of—

"Maid of Athens, ere we part Give, oh, give me back my heart"—

he would probably be writing for the latest legal brief to see if there were any chance for an attachment suit.

RICHEST HEIRESS

The most modern Athenian maid is not only the richest heiress in the Hellenes but she is perhaps the most advanced and exceptional young woman in Europe.

How many heiresses to millions, only daughter of a house with a family tree the most ancient in Greece — would voluntarily take a little studio in Athens and burn the midnight electricity pouring over law books?

Miss Irene Mano has done that.

Little Miss Mano is just 20 and she began her legal studies when she was 17. When she calmly made the announcement that she was leaving the vast Ma- estates in

IRENE MANO

Crete for a simple studio in Athens, all Athenian society as well as her immediate family was astounded. The thing had never been done before.

"I wanted to study law because I intend to understand theroly, the rights of women. I think the day of woman is at hand here in Greece as well as elsewhere. Just because I am my father's daughter shouldn't make me a parasite.

"All the more reason for my studying law. A woman who inherits property ought to know something about looking after her own affairs.

"But my real inspiration in studying law is a desire to really know the legal status of women, and —well, there are laws that some day will be changed.

HOPES TO INSPIRE

"I hope I will inspire other girls to take up professional careers. I have very little interest in the frivolous side of life. At the university there are eight other girls studying from necessity. I am the only one, I guess, who has taken up the study of law from pure personal desire."

Miss Mano speaks English and French as perfectly as she does Greek. She is also proficient in German and knows some Rumanian.

"I'm ambitious to go to America and study in an American university," she said.

TWO LOVE GIRL--MURDER

TRUE LIMA DETECTIVE STORY—ANOTHER TOMORROW

A HIGH-PITCHED, strident female voice buzzed in the desk sergeant's ear as he snapped the telephone receiver from the hook at headquarters in answer to insistent ringing of the phone bell.

"H-h-hurry, send somebody to the Maxwell hotel on S. Main-st. I just know something terrible has happened."

Those were the days when the telephone had not yet reached the stage which prevents operators from employing the gentle art of "listening in." The sergeant had heard many such telephonic outbursts, and was not disposed to regard them seriously. Furthermore, there was nobody to send out and the patrolman on the S. Main-st beat could not be located.

* * *

He swore roundly when the same voice almost split his eardrum. He had been careful of that ear ever since it had been frosted while he was walking a beat, and to have it set ringing was more than he could endure. A final screech rang from the receiver as he snapped it on the hook.

In his impatience he forgot to ask the girl what she knew, but nevertheless he rounded up Bill Thomas and Webb Harrison to investigate. They had no cars that were frosted, so ventured to question the operator.

"Two men were talking angrily. They screamed and swore at each other. One said 'Just wait until I get you.' The first call came in from the Maxwell and the second from the Erie restaurant."

* * *

The officers hurried to the Maxwell and closely investigated every telephone call in the last half hour. Only one person had used the 'phone —Ben Toben, n'er-do-well and man-about-town. But no one in the place could tell what he was talking about because the telephone was removed from the main part of the hotel. Toben had merely dropped in and requested use of the instrument.

* * *

Thomas and Harrison then went to the Erie. Toben had used the 'phone, they were told, but none heard the conversation. Harrison called the operator and asked her to explain in detail.

"Why, I sort of thought something was going to happen because one of them—I couldn't tell which one—was telling the other that he was going to 'get him.' The calls came in from the Maxwell and Erie and were answered by a party out at the Casey House."

* * *

At mention of "Casey House" Harrison jammed down the receiver and hotfooted out the door, Thomas at his heels.

Their destination was an old ramshackle building which rejoiced in the Irish appellation which had startled Harrison. It was located at the foot of S. Metcalf-st and at that time was one of the particular rendezvous which police carefully watched.

* * *

A room on the second floor was lighted, the policemen observed as they neared the place. A light-colored shade covered the window facing them on the street. A human form was silhouetted against it. They quickened their pace, but even as they did so an arm was uplifted and something whirled above the figure's head, seeming to writhe like a serpent.

A piercing scream echoed from the building. Again and again the serpentine thing was shadowed on the shade. Suddenly the room was shrouded in darkness. By this time officers had reached the door.

They burst thru and took the stair steps three at a time. The door of the front room, which opened on the stair landing was ajar. Likewise a connecting door on the other side of the hallway. A rush of cold air thru the latter aperture led to the supposition that somebody had used it but a few seconds before.

Then they turned their attention to the room from whence came the scream. They were not surprised to find a man lying on his back. The features were grotesque, like those of a petulant child. Evidently the man had been surprised by the murderer.

He was Ed Seibold. Low moaning from an adjoining room led the policemen to investigate. They entered with drawn guns, but found only a woman, Belle Dove, who managed to gasp that Toben and Seibold had fought over her and Seibold was killed.

* * *

Their differences had been of long standing. Toben had sought to ingratiate himself into the woman's good graces, but whatever advances he made were thwarted by Seibold.

Toben called him twice that night and each was a threat. When he finally appeared at the Casey House and seemed in a conciliatory mood, Seibold thought he had called his bluff, but wrapped underneath Toben's coat was a three-foot length of wire-wrapped garden hose, which swung on the unsuspecting Seibold with terrible effect when the latter had his back turned.

* * *

Toben was tracked to his lair on S. Metcalf-st that same night and captured. He was convicted and given a sentence of from one to 20 years in the penitentiary, but has been released. The murder occurred several years ago.

* * *

Diplomatic relations between the desk sergeant and telephone operator were resumed. Never again did he squawk at her when her voice in the receiver seemed like tiny needles piercing his frozen ear. He was the first to remark what a great loss it was to the police department when progress of telephonic equipment made it impossible to "listen in."

KNOCKERS HIT BY CITY MANAGER

Proponents of Home Chief so Characterized by Bingham

Objectors to the plan of bringing an outsider to Lima to head the police department were characterized as "knockers" by Manager C. A. Bingham Thursday.

The idea has been received, according to Bingham, with almost universal popular acclaim.

It is conceded, however, that there are some persons, Bingham says, who still prefer a man who has drunk from the old town pump.

No action has been taken to bring a man here since it was decided to employ an outsider.

Some time ago Bingham declared that a police captain from some large city, Detroit or Chicago, might have the qualifications needed.

Liabilities were given as $1,500,000. These are said by an attorney for the firm to have declined to $700,000. Assets are given as $150,000.

WHAT becomes of the great fighters, the champions, after they have passed out of the sporting spotlight?

* * *

When a champion is at the height of his career, he is the most talked about individual in the country.

* * *

However, when a champion loses his crown, and drops out of the public eye, he is soon forgotten. The sporting public is mighty fickle.

* * *

During the summer we have evidence of that fact every day on the ball field. One day a player is a real hero because he won a game thru some remarkable play. The next day he is a dub when he loses the game because of some misplay.

* * *

During his pugilistic heyday Young Corbett was one of the most colorful fighters in the game. Corbett furnished plenty of copy for the newspapers because he was decidedly original.

* * *

Many of the fight fans of today have forgotten about Young Corbett. Those of the older school, while having a keen remembrance of some of his great fights, have no idea as to the present whereabouts of the man who was once the idol of the prize ring.

* * *

In his day Terry McGovern was a great little fighter. There was something about Terry's style that made a hit with you. He was a real fighter who never gave an inch, who carried the fight to his opponent from the tap of the gong to the end of the round.

* * *

McGovern was a popular hero. He was regarded as invincible. And then there came out of the west a young man by the name of William Rothwell, who had taken the name of Young Corbett as his ring monicker.

* * *

Young Corbett was matched with Terry McGovern. No one conceded Corbett a chance. Terry would surely knock him out, was the verdict of all the experts.

* * *

The bout was staged at Hartford, Conn. Corbett knocked out McGovern in two rounds. It was one of the most sensational bouts in the history of the ring.

* * *

He had come from the west practically unheralded and in two short rounds had beaten down the great McGovern, "Terrible Terry." He was offered fabulous sums by promoters to box and fancy salaries by rival theatrical producers.

* * *

In a few short years Corbett made perhaps a quarter of a million dollars. That was some money in those days. He lost most of his money as quickly as he made it.

* * *

So-called friends found him easy to touch. He bet on horses that ran last, and was a fall guy for the wheel. When he lost to Jimmy Britt it was the turning point in his career.

* * *

From then on he didn't seem to care. He slipped rapidly as a fighter and was soon in the has-been class. His ability and most of his money was gone. Broadway, which owed him a living, has treated him rather shabbily.

* * *

Now, after 21 years on Broadway he is going back home. Going back to his dad who owns a little farm outside of Denver. He is tired of Broadway and the bright lights.

* * *

Young Corbett told his story to Charles Stoneham, owner of the New York Giants, the other day. Stoneham staked him to a roll. Young Corbett has bid Broadway goodby. It made him and broke him.

* * *

There is one thing about Downey that makes a hit with the fight fans. He seldom disappoints. If a bout in which he is one of the principals fails to please, blame can never be attached to Downey as he is always trying.

Downey has just one ambition in life. He seeks to have the world recognize him as the middleweight champion. He realizes that at present his claim to the title is rather clouded. He also knows the only way to have the public recognize him as the real thing is to fight his way to it.

Leonard Vs Britton Go Expected

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL)

NEW YORK — Such a thing as being too good is no nice way to be. It has its compensation, but it also has its back slaps.

Benny Leonard's world's lightweight champion, says the rewards of greatness are nothing compared to its penalties.

"I'm lauded to the skies one minute and put on the pan the next." The panning is what hurts, because the knocks come from my best friends. They all want me to win but if I don't get a victory by a knockout they roast me," the dapper lightweight king says.

Around police headquarters whenever Leonard is announced in a bout they get the reserves ready. The young champion perhaps has more real friends and a bigger following in New York than any other boxer. Harlem and the Bronx are with him to a man and they consider him "their own." Whenever he boxes, they swoop down to the ringside en masse, loaded with money. In their over-zealousness they expect him to knock any opponent kicking in a round or two and when some fortunate happens to stay the distance with him, they cry.

FIGHT WITH KANSAS DECRIED

Leonard fought one of his greatest fights recently against Rocky Kansas. After getting away to a bad start, he showed his class as a real champion by winning a decisive decision.

The fans, however, growled—"He didn't knock 'im out. He's going back."

They didn't stop to consider that Kansas never has been knocked out; that he has ribs of steel and a jaw of iron; that he is so awkward he has a clever fighting style and he is one of the most dangerous lightweights in the ring.

They figured only that Leonard is one of the greatest lightweights of all time and that he didn't knock his man out.

Early in the bout, the champion looked bad. He missed frequently, his footwork was not up to standard and above all—his hair got mussed and his face was smeared with crimson. But he had the class, that quality which characterizes the great in any profession—the ability to rise up and strike back when it looks dark and things are going bad.

COVETS WELTER CROWN

It is only an exaction of nature that Leonard might be going back a little. He is still a young man, but he has been in the ring a long time and he may have reached his prime. Perhaps he never will be any better than he is now but there is no reason to believe that he will slip fast. He is still a great champion and worthy of his title.

If the champion was off form against, Kansas, it was due more than anything else to lack of work. He hadn't had a real hard fight since the great bout with Richie Mitchell a year ago. If he had trained on a couple of good bouts, there is no doubt that he would have gotten away better instead of using five or six rounds to get going.

Since he has so convincingly shown his superiority in the lightweight division, it is a fair conclusion that he will start his long planned drive for the welterweight championship. A Britton-Leonard bout for the welter crown has been popular talk for several months and it is very likely that it will be staged in the Jersey City arena this summer. It would be a wonderful exhibition between two great masters and with the following that both boast in New York, the big pine stadium would be at least half-filled for the contest.

MAY RETIRE SOON

For more than a year there has been talk of Leonard's plan to retire. During his regime as champion, he is said to have made more than $700,000. Of course he hasn't been able to save that much. He says it costs him more than $70,000 a year to live, with all the financial demands that his title burdens him with. However, he has enough laid aside and invested to make his future anything but uncertain.

Query A Day, By Evans

Batter hits ball over the fence and makes the circuit of the bases on his drive. In rounding third base the coacher slaps him on the back. It was merely a slap of praise as the ball had passed out of playing territory when the coacher so performed. A claims the runner should be called out for the coacher's interference, while B claims he is entitled to a home run. B IS right, the batsman who hit the ball over the fence is entitled to a home run regardless of the action of the coacher in slapping him on the back.

The rule governing such a play, says no penalty should be inflicted when there is no chance to make a play on the base runner. When a batter hits the ball over the fence or into the stand the presumption is that no play is possible and he is entitled to a home run.

The coaching rule was made with the intent to inflict a penalty when the action of the coacher had a direct bearing on the play.

DOWNEY BEATS CARBONE

CANTON — Bryan Downey, middleweight, defeated Frank Carbone, Bayonne, N. J., in a 12-round fight here last night. Downey smashed Carbone around the ring for nine rounds, two stanzas were drawn and one went to the Jersey battler.

CHICAGO — Fourteen pitchers answered the call of Manager Killefer yesterday for the initial drill of the year, according to word from Catalina Island, training camp of the Chicago Nationals. For the last two days the athletes had to content themselves with hiking, golfing and climbing because of the rain. The playing field has been too wet for practice. But yesterday the players found a high dry spot and a brisk game of high-low followed. Occasionally some athlete would "put on steam" but his exuberance would be checked by Manager Killefer.

A heavy wind storm interfered with the training work of the American League club at Marlin Springs, Texas, and the workout lasted only an hour.

"Flying Cop" Sets Four New Records.

CHICAGO — Bob McAllister, New York's "flying cop" set four new indoor sprint records yesterday in the 13th regiment armory. He stepped 100 yards in 9 4-5 seconds, 110 yards in 10 3-5; 120 yards in 11 4-5; 130 yards in 13 3-5 and 150 yards in 14 3-5. His time for the "century" was not a record, however, as only two judges caught him. The other distances had not been run indoors.

Babe Ruth Golfs While Training

CHICAGO — Golf has been added to the curriculum for the conditioning of baseball players, according to reports coming from the various training camps of the major league clubs. From Hot Springs, Ark., word was received that Babe Ruth, the home run king, lost little time getting out his golf sticks and visiting the links.

Eddie Collins, second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, is another athlete who enjoys a morning round on the links, while Bill Killefer, manager of the Chicago Cubs showed his love for the game when he led a foursome around the links at Catalina Island, the Cubs' training camp, the other day. Rain had prevented practice for the athletes and Killefer got up the foursome.

Secretary Harry Grabiner of the Chicago White Sox, said that it is a common occurrence now to see a few golf bags filled with sticks thrown in with the club's luggage whenever it hits the road. Baseball writers, traveling with the clubs, also have taken to the game and much of the early day is spent on the links. players often meeting scribes, while the writers from the city often battle their fellow scribes in other cities on the links.

NEGLECTED OF COURSE

Every day we are shocked at reading in the daily newspapers the death of some well-known man or woman of our city prominent in business, civic or social life. What caused their sudden deaths?

Well, it happened from a simple cold — neglected of course — but terminating fatally — pneumonia. Take no chances when you have a cold. Get a package of Bulgarian Blood Tea from your druggist, brew a cupful and take it hot at bed time. It will assist nature to kill that cold and resist the deadly pneumonia germ in many instances.

DANFORTH SAYS SPEED, NOT TRICKS, IS HIS BEST ASSET

At a meeting of major leagues in New York, the St. Louis Browns startled the baseball world by giving 11 players for Dave Danforth, pitcher. He was a big league discard, had been tried by two major clubs and went back to the minors a big success. He was accused of doctoring the ball to get results. The Lima News presents his side of the case.

(BY DAVE DANFORTH)

IF a pitcher is able to get a good hop on his fast ball the batters immediately insist that he is cheating.

I have always been fortunate enough to have a pretty good fast ball. That for years has gained for me the reputation of being a cheater.

In baseball being a cheater is for a pitcher to make use of some illegal means to get a hop on his fast ball. Use of emery paper, or any other method of roughening the ball will produce such a result.

Opposing batters have never given me credit for having any brains. Any success that I have had on the ball field has always been credited to illegal methods.

While I am not trying to pose as "Christy" Mathewson, still I feel that I am able to pitch intelligently. At least I feel that I am able to match wits with most batters and get away with it.

Ever since I joined the majors, and in the minors as well, I have been accused of trickery to get results. I feel that such an attitude on the part of the players has had considerable to do with what little success I have had.

When I am selected to pitch, opposing players usually go right up in the air. They figure the "old cheater" is going to work, and it is up to them to discover what I am doing with the ball.

BATTERS ARE SUSPICIOUS

While I am doing the pitching, most of the batters turn detectives for a day. Instead of swinging at my stuff they are too busy trying to figure out how I am doping the ball. The old psychology of the game enters into it. The batters quit concentrating on their hitting.

My fast ball hasn't nearly as much stuff on it as most batters insist. They are always looking for something different when I slip them a fast ball, and then I fan them with the most ordinary offerings. I have seen batters miss a third strike, a fast ball as straight as a string, and insist that it jumpet six inches.

I pitch just like any other ordinary individual. I use speed, a slow ball and a curve. Now and then I am able to make a fast ball "sail," as we say in baseball, which means it takes an unusual hop.

However, the unusual hop that I get on my fast ball every now and then is not the result of trickery. I have a large pair of hands, long tapering fingers and am able to get a good grip on the ball.

In making it sail I hold the ball on the ends of my fingers, and let it go in such a manner that it produces the desired result, a hop on the fast one.

NEVER MARS THE BALL

I never mar a ball. Occasionally I rub the ball down the side of my trousers, as is often done by such pitchers as Shocker of St. Louis, Mays of New York, Leonard of Detroit and a number of others.

I have been credited with having everything but brains. Anyhow I manage to outsmart them enough to win a lot of ball games.

When the Chicago White Sox dropped me I felt pretty badly. I don't believe I ever should have been dropped from the majors. Too much work in the bull pen robbed me of my fast ball.

I made up my mind to prove that a lot of fellows made a mistake when I was waived out of both major leagues. I think I have succeeded.

PITCHERS FORM TRIBE VANGUARD

DALLAS, Texas — Guy Morton and Leslie Nunamaker, members of the Cleveland Americans, arrived here yesterday and are awaiting the first contingent of the Indians, expected on a train from the east this afternoon. Tris Speaker, manager, failed to appear yesterday, but the Texan probably will show up today.

Speaker, who is the pride of baseball fans in Texas, has a surprise awaiting him. A local hotel manager has had bell boys and maids busy for the past week "fixing up things" for the big chief. The manager "pointed with pride" to the expensively furnished suite reserved for Speaker.

The men will fight at 147 pounds. Ted White, Toledo and Richie Colvert, Cleveland, will meet in the eight round semi-final bout at 128 pounds.

St. Johns Beaten By Ottoville

Ottoville lambasted St. Johns High school on the Y. M. C. A. floor in the final local battle of the Saints this season by the score of 29 to 20. The local five put up a determined battle, but most of their efforts were wasted because of Brandehof, Ottoville's lanky center, who measures six feet and two inches. He rang up 16 pointers for the visitors.

The first half was speedy. Time was called only once. The score at its conclusion was 19 to 17 in favor of Ottoville. It began to appear in the second frame that St. Johns might take the lead, but time was too short for them to coin the necessary markers.

Falk and Farley, Lima forwards, played one of the best games this season, but there was too much Brandehof in the fracas. The addition of Miller, who has been out for several games, strengthened the St. Johns team at guard.

The last game of the season will be played Friday by St. Johns. They travel to Glandorf.

Bowsher Beats Patsy White

Don Bowsher, Lima middleweight, forced Patsy White of Chillicothe to the canvas in the second round of their ten-round fight at Columbus Wednesday night. White was down and out at the end of the second frame and failed to respond to the bell in the third, which gave Bowsher a technical knockout.

There was five pounds difference in their weights, White making 165 and Bowsher 160.

According to W. K. Steline, Sidney, Don's manager, it was his tenth knockout.

Show your appreciation February 28, boys, by giving the judges a rousing cheerio.

"PENROD" WILL BRING BACK THE DAYS OF YOUTH

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

THIS country faces a pretty predicament. No sister's beau will be safe from being forced to pay tribute to young brothers.

Empty lots will be undermined for outlaw caves.

Mild church and school entertainments will be turned into riots.

Traffic cops face new dangers.

Our entire social system faces upheaval!

Marshall Neilan will be to blame for it all. He has brought to life on the screen all the devilish antics of boys that Booth Tarkington painted in words in "Penrod."

It used to be that mother could keep such a book from her darling boy and if it did fall into his hands she could tell him that those things only happened in books.

But now it's different. Ebullient youth comes into its own on the screen.

Mother's darling can protest that a regular guy like Wesley Barry didn't want to act in no "Pageant of the Table Round" and that he didn't want to go to no dancing school and that he read lurid fiction in bed when his dad thought he was reading his lessons.

And in the end everybody—in the picture—had to admit that the boys were alright and that they knew just as much as grown-up folks.

That's bad stuff to be presenting to the youth of America. The censors ought to be doing something about it.

The first thing you know, proud parents won't be able to bluff their children with presumptions about things of which they know nothing.

Threatening as that state of affairs may seem to our social system, Marshall Neilan should be happy in having created it.

Altho "Penrod" on the screen may add years to young shoulders it strips them from old shoulders. One lives again in that dim and misunderstood boyhood as he watches the reel unfold.

Faurot—"The Bat"

EACH year in the theatrical world one play invariably stands out head and shoulders above all the other attractions. The past year that distinction fell to "The Bat," the dramatic triumph, written by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood. Not only has "The Bat" run for one entire year in New York, but it is still going on, playing to capacity audiences nightly. In Chicago, too, "The Bat" set a new record for that city by playing for one solid year, something never before heard of in theatricals annals of Chicago.

"The Bat" will be seen at the Faurot on Saturday matinee and night, and theatregoers who have long been hearing of the success of this play will undoubtedly welcome the announcement. Assuredly a play that has received such universal praise from both critics and public alike, will be well worth seeing.

"The Bat" is presented by Wagenhals and Kemper. They have an enviable reputation in the theatrical world as producers of successes. With "The Bat" they have brought all their skill to play and the result is, as one critic puts it, "a production that will keep you talking for months after it has been here and gone."

"The Bat" is a super mystery play. But it is something else as well. Running thru it is one of the funniest and alltogether delightfully humorous characters ever depicted on the stage. Thanks to this element "The Bat," while it will thrill you thru and thru, it will, at the same time, keep you in almost constant laughter.

The production of "The Bat" to be seen here is exactly the same as that in New York and Chicago. The company is an excellent one. Seats are now selling. On account of the abnormal demand all advance orders must be called for this afternoon or tonight.

". . . directly beside the window and without warning a face appeared within a few inches of her own.

"It was a white drawn face with disheveled hair and with eyes which stared wildly into hers for a moment while she held her breath in surprise and terror."

This was what terrified beautiful Fay Tudor as she sat alone in the library on the night of her return from France.

Then swiftly flowed the current of mystery and crime.

Whose was the wrong face? Who fatally gassed innocent Laurel Tudor on her betrothal night with lethal monoxide? How did Fay, sleeping in the same room, escape? What part did the gas mask play? Had Fay's war shattered nerves made her the murderess of her cousin?

She didn't know!

A plot of startling originality, yet logically and convincingly developed into a surprising denouement, makes "The Wrong Face" a brilliant addition to the novels of America's greatest detective story writer.

HOLIDAY HELP TO BUSINESS

Forbes Sees Need of Recreation As Industry Aid

REMEDY FOR DISCONTENT

Brings Social Uplift and Prolongs Life

(BY B. C. FORBES).

NEW YORK — (Special)—Holidays, like most things in life, are good when taken in moderation. As with money, holidays are unevenly distributed among the people. Some rich men become so obsessed chasing wealth that they neglect seeking health. In certain industries there are too many enforced "holidays," while in other industries holidays are altogether too few.

* * *

One good thing about an occasional holiday is that it gives human beings an opportunity to think. The daily grind, the daily round, leaves most men and women little time or inclination for calm reflection, for pondering what it is all about. The leisure of a holiday affords many people a chance to turn their thoughts away from their regular rut.

Also, of course, holidays bring time for recreation. Recreation is essential to the full development of our faculties. Every normal human being aspires to atttain success in one direction or another. The more I study the careers of men who have achieved more than the ordinary, the more I become impressed with the importance of obtaining a rational amount of recreation. The dynamic executive needs recreation just as much as the humble toiler needs it, and the latter needs it just as much as the former. There would be less social discontent and more and better work would be done were a reasonable measure of recreation infused into the lives of all workers. There would be fewer untimely deaths among our Napoleons of finance and industry were the indispensability of rational recreation recognized.

* * *

"The man who works fifty-two weeks in the year does not do his best in any one week of the year," Daniel Guggenheim, head of the best known smelting and mining family in the world impressed upon me. "Some people think I was a slave to work all my business life. The trouble is" said John D. Rockefeller, with a twinkle, "I was a bit of what would now be called a 'slacker' after I reached the middle thirties." Coleman DuPont, who before becoming a senator, thought nothing of buying a Waldorf-Astoria before breakfast, securing control of an industrial plant by lunch time, and becoming a dominating factor in a financial organization before nightfall, goes in whole-heartedly for sport and other forms of recreation.

* * *

The man who fills the biggest business industrial job in the world, E. H. Gary, head of the two-billion dollar Steel Corporation, often relaxes. So did Theodore N. Vail, whose achievements in the telephone field constitute one of the most remarkable monuments ever raised by one man. Gary is 74, while Vail lived well beyond the alloted span of three score years and ten. E. H. Harriman, on the other hand, never played, and he died from overwork at 61. James J. Hill was wiser. He spent many an evening singing the good old psalms of David or listening to the violin, on which he was an authority. His other recreations were manifold; and he lived to be seventy-eight.

* * *

Too many of us, especially when young, confound recreation with dissipation. Real recreation quickens aspiration. The true purpose of recreation is not merely to amuse, not merely to afford us pleasure, not merely to "kill time," but to increase our fitness, enhance our usefulness, spur achievement. Any form of recreation tht impairs either our physical or mental efficiency does not recreate.

* * *

Britain made what was regarded an amazing discovery after she had been feverishly waging war for more than a year. Early in the struggle the fiat went forth that factories, ship yards, munition plants and every other vital industry must work seven days a week, and that every man and woman must labor twelve or more hours every day. Output fell off alarmingly, yet the bosses were driving their forces to the limit, the wheels were kept going long into the night, no vacations were granted. The government finally ordered an investigation by an eminent body of physicians, employers and psychologists. They found that where the longest hours were worked the results were the poorest. The whole system of "all work and no play" was immediately abandoned. Theatres, many of which had been closed, were re-opened, football, golf and cricket, which had been tabooed, were revived; social life, which had been frowned upon, was restored.

* * *

When Henry Ford reduced working hours in his plant from ten to eight per day production not only did not fall off, but increased phenomenally. George J. Reynolds, head of the largest bank in Chicago, insists upon every one of his officers taking a full day off every week in addition to Sunday. "The pace is so rapid and the pressure so great that a man cannot stand up against it and do the best for either the institution or himself if he works more than five days a week," Mr. Reynolds explained to me. Edison won't employ as an officer any man who plays golf or who has any other hobby, but Edison, being a genius, has eccentric notions.

* * *

How we spend our non-working hours determines very largely how capably or incapably we spend our working hours. Do your evenings, do your Saturday afternoons, do your Sundays, do your vacations add to your mental and physical equipment for the battle of life? Do you make your play pay? Are you at your best on Monday morning? Or, after a respite from duty, do you return a trifle seedy?

While success ostensibly is won during working hours, in reality it is most often won during non-business hours, the hours that are spent away from the bench or the office; the hours during which we are our own masters; the hours we are at liberty to use or misuse.

* * *

Washington's birthday, Lincoln's birthday and other holidays can be made either an individual and a national blessing, or the reverse. How is it with you?

MAY WHEAT GOES DOWN TO $1.44

Slump Preceded by Sharp Rally —Close Unsettled

CHICAGO — Altho wheat showed setbacks in price at the opening today, the market soon rallied and scored a substantial advance. The initial depression was due to rains in the portion of the winter crop territory, where drought had been long continued. Active buying set in, however, on the decline, and with quotations at Liverpool and Buenos Aires displaying comparative strength, an upturn in values here was quickly brought about. The opening, which varied from 1 3-8 to 2c lower, with May $1.43 to $1.43 1-2 and July $1.23 1-2 to 1.24 1-2, was followed by a rise to well above Tuesday's finish.

Corn ascended to a new high price record for the crop. Indications were said to point to a material decrease in the arrival of corn here. After opening 7-8 off to 3-8 up, May 63 5-8 to 64, the market took a general upward swing.

Oats went higher, with corn, starting 3-8 lower to 1-8 gain, May 41 1-4 to 41 3-8, and then rising all around.

Despite a hesitating start, provisions advanced in response to the action of grain and hogs.

The wheat closing was unsettled, 3-4 to 1 5-8 net lower, with May $1.44 to 1.44 1-8 and July $1.24 3-4 to 1.24 7-8.

The corn close was nervous at 1-2 to 1 1-8 and 1 1-4 net gain, with May 67 to 67 1-8 and 1-4.

STOCK AND GRAIN GOSSIP

Broomhall says the foreign wheat crop conditions are generally seasonable and prospects for crops in Europe are about maintained.

Some of the early buyers of wheat have been selling on the bulges.

Official weather map shows generally clear and cold weather in the northwest, and a good deal of precipitation in the west and southwest and Ohio valley.

The Canadian visible supply shows 41,004,000 bushels of wheat and 3,558,000 bushels of oats.

Topeka, Kansas, message says indications are that Wednesday's rain will work wonders with wheat. It was the first soaking rain in weeks.

WAGNER & CO. TO SUBMIT PROPOSITION TO CREDITORS

It is understood that E. W. Wagner & Co. will soon submit a proposition to their creditors of 50 cents cash and 25 cents in notes guaranteed by secured notes and based on slow assets. There is more thanu $5,100,000 of cash and good securities available in bank at present, it is said. This offer is regarded by grain and financial men as the best the trade has had considering the short time and large volume of business handled since the failure.

STOCKS RISE ONE TO SIX POINTS

Gains Are Reduced, However, in Trial Dealings

NEW YORK—Accumulation of buying orders over the holiday gave momentum to the further advance of prices at the opening of today's stock market. Foreign oils, especially Royal Dutch, Shell Trading and General Asphalt, were the strongest issues. Southern Railway and St. Louis and San Francisco featured the renewed inquiry for speculative rails and Sears-Roebuck, Wilson and Pierce Arrow preferred denoted short covering. The only stock to show acute weakness was National Enameling common. That stock dropped 3 1-2 points on further postponement of dividend action.

The market wavered in the first half hour because of pressure against Mexican and Pan-American Petroleums, Crucible Steel and Rock Island. Prices rebounded briskly, however, on the fresh demand for high grade rails, steels, equipments, motors and specialties. High records for a year or more were made by United States Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, American Car, General Electric, Studebaker and Chandler, these gaining 1 to 3 points. Canadian Pacific added 1 to 3 points to its recent steady advance and Union Pacific, Reading second preferred, St. Louis and San Francisco and Pere Marquette preferred gained 1 to 1 1-2 points. American Woolen, National Lead and International Nickel preferred also were strong. National Enameling recovered all its loss despite the passing of the common dividend. Call money opened at 5 per cent.

Extensions of 1 to 6 points to recent gains were made by leaders of the stock market today but these were substantially reduced in the final dealings on higher money tendencies. Sales approximated 1,200,000 shares.

The closing was irregular.

BRINGING UP FATHER— By McMANUS

SHORT SHAVINGS

Ira Wagner attempted to prepare his own breakfast. Receipt book in his hand, he put an egg on to boil. "Then I lost my place," he says, "and before I could find it again the egg was hard."

Dr. Frank Smith says many persons have colds this week, but that isn't the reason so many began to sneeze yesterday in the restaurant where he dines. "I spilled some pepper and made the mistake of trying to blow it away."

"Bill" Allgire told others waiting their turn in the barber shop that he was troubled with a ringing in the ear every morning. "From a cold?" he was asked. "No," he said. "From an alarm clock." (But they let him stay.)

Oscar Young was late to a party he attended yesterday.

"I saw my dress shirt slipping off a nail into the bath tub," he said. "I jumped for it, and fell into the tub myself."

SELECTION OF TURNKEY FOR JAIL IS DELAYED

Selection of a turnkey for the city jail, to take the place of Abe Vinegar, whose resignation was tendered three weeks ago, has not been made, according to City Manager C. A. Bingham.

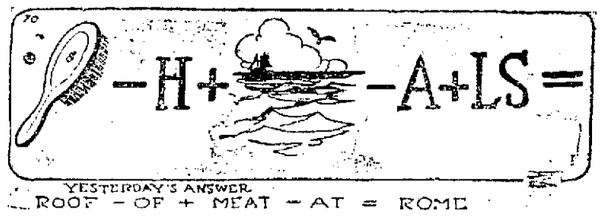

The person on the civil service eligible list who attained the highest per cent in police examinations, will get the job, Bingham said. He has been unable to obtain the list, however, because of M. P. Colt, chairman of the commission, being absent from the city.

The job pays $95 per month, $30 less than patrolmen receive.

Warmth from Real Fuel-Food

Warmth and strength for the human engine come from a fuel-food that is rich in heat-making elements. You can't "get up steam" from indigestible food that is lacking in blood-making, tissue-building elements. A breakfast or luncheon of

Shredded Wheat
With HOT Milk

supplies warmth and strength in a natural way. You can't warm a poorly nourished body with flannels and overcoats. Shredded Wheat is 100 per cent whole wheat and contains the bran-coat, which promotes peristalsis and thus keeps the bowels healthy and active. A breakfast of Shredded Wheat with hot milk starts the day right.

Heat the Biscuits in the oven to restore their crispness; pour hot milk over them, adding a little cream and a little salt. Better for children than mushy porridges—ready cooked and ready-to-serve.

Relieves Rheumatism
Musterole loosens up stiff joints and drives out pain. A clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard, it usually brings relief as soon as you start to rub it on.
It does all the good work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster, without the blister. Doctors and nurses often recommend its use.
Get Musterole today at your drug store. 35 and 65c in jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.
BETTER THAN A MUSTARD PLASTER
MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER

NEVER WANT ANYTHING ELSE
"I tried many different kinds of cough medicine," writes Mrs. E. K. Olson, 1917 Ohio Ave., Superior, Wis., "but I never want anything else than Foley's Honey and Tar. I used it for all my children and also for my grandchild. It has always done fine work." Foley's is a pure, wholesome and absolutely safe remedy for the relief of colds, coughs, croup and whooping cough. Children like it and it checks sneezing and sniffling. Chas. J. Vortkamp, Main and McKibben. —Adv.
